PRACTICALLY RESIGNS AT REQUEST OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

Chief Executive Calls on Attorney-General to Give Up Position

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, March 28.—James M. Beck, at present acting solicitor of the department of justice and one of the most prominent lawyers of the country, became acting attorney general at noon today and will continue in that capacity until President Coolidge appoints his successor.

Curtis D. Wilbur, of California, who became secretary of the navy only a few days ago, and Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, are two of the outstanding candidates for Daugherty's post.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty retired from the cabinet today under conditions that amounted virtually to a removal from office by President Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge asked for the resignation of Mr. Daugherty in a 700-word letter, in which he said matters had reached a stage where it was necessary for the president to have the "disinterested advice" of an attorney general, and in view of the investigation now proceeding against Mr. Daugherty, he did not think he was capable of rendering that sort of advice.

The president got Mr. Daugherty's resignation in a sixty-word reply that was as brusque and brief as the president's letter was lengthy and explanatory.

Situation Intolerable

The president informed the attory-general that he was not prejudging his guilt or innocence of the charges made against him before the Wheeler committee—but that the present situation was intolerable from the White House viewpoint. Mr. Daugherty's twin positions of being attorney-general and at the same time defending himself were incompatible, the president said.

Within an hour after the White House announced the retirement of the attorney-general and made public the two letters, Daugherty himself made public a second letter to Mr. Coolidge, written as a private citizen—in which he described the grounds on which Mr. Coolidge asked for his resignation as "untenable."

It was one of the most remarkable documents emanating from a cabinet officer, addressed to the chief executive.

The attorney-general declared he had been pilloried by the un-

SEATTLE, March 28.—With twenty-eight planes assembled at Sand Point field and another large squadron scheduled to arrive late today, Seattle is prepared to make its air circus tomorrow a fitting demonstration for the intrepid United States army round-the-world flyers, who will nose their machines across the Pacific next week.

The christening of the four ships yesterday afternoon was followed by the arrival of seventeen planes from Crissy and Rockwell fields, California. Today dawned as a busy morning at the field with aviators tuning up their craft in preparation for the circus tomorrow.

At noon today, the drum and bugle corps from Fort Lawton garrison here paraded the downtown streets advertising the event.

NEWS STORY FINDS GIRL LOST FOR 10 YEARS

Reunited With Aunt After Reading of Search for Clew to Whereabouts

Separated ten years ago Ruth Anderson today was reunited with her aunt, Mrs. P. Rosenfeld by the aid of The Glendale Evening News. Since Mrs. Rosenfeld came to Glendale from Oakland three months ago, they have lived within a few blocks of each other, in the same section of the city.

Until Ruth, who lives at 326 East Cypress street, read a story appearing in The Evening News she had lost all connection with her early childhood. The last time she saw her, Mrs. Rosenfeld, the aunt whom she loved years ago, was at the funeral of her foster mother, Mrs. D. Mabel Church, held ten years ago at Fresno.

Becomes Bride

Ruth has been shifted about continually by the hand of death since infancy, until two years ago she married W. R. Anderson in Glendale. Her parents died before she was a year old. Dr. Church adopted her and she assumed the name of Ruth Church. She was ten years old when her foster mother died. It was then that she lost all track of the aunt with whom she was reunited today.

Since then, she said, she has "had about a dozen different names." The strange hand of fate sent her from one family to another. She has lived in various states and cities. She lived with Dr. Church during her childhood in Vancouver, Wash. Much of the time since then, she said, has been spent in California. She came to Glendale three years ago.

It was Mrs. F. W. Anderson, 118 North Louise, Ruth's mother-in-law, who called her attention to the news story that recalled intimacies of her childhood days. Mrs. Rosenfeld lives at 1011 South Central avenue.

Studying Music

Mrs. Anderson said today she is studying music and dramatic art in Glendale.

"It is my life ambition," she declared.

"I have lived in California for

Present Sketch

At the chapter meeting of the Alpha Delphians at the home of Mrs. J. D. Zinke, 1611 North Pacific, yesterday morning, the Lotus group, of which Mrs. Paul C. Mason is the leader, presented the program.

A sketch from life, "Modern Drama of the Twentieth Century," was very cleverly depicted by the members of this group, in two scenes, the first scene representing the group at the home of Mrs. H. W. Yarick, two years ago, the conversation light, frivolous and gossipy. Scene two was two years later at the home of Mrs. Zinke, the same group after the prescribed study of the Delphians of the "Rules for the Art of Conversation." It was very cleverly done.

In the study of the day, "Drama of the Restoration," Mrs. M. B. Russell gave a sketch of Sheridan; Mrs. Mason of Richard Bundy, Mrs. Colburn, German Drama, Lessing life and works, selection from Lessing by Mrs. Manbert and Mrs. Mathews.

Mrs. Virginia Freeman presented four of her pupils in a group of songs; a trio by Misses Gretna Cordary, Pearl Adair and Gladys White, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Yarick, "Morning," and a quartet, "Mighty Like a Rose."

Miss Isabel Isgrigg, accompanied by Mrs. Fitz, sang "Du Bist Wie Eine Blume" and as a duet Mrs. Fitz and Miss Isgrigg sang "Greeting" (Mendelssohn).

Mrs. O. P. Lucas, president of the chapter, presided over the short business session.

BUSINESS LINES SHOW INCREASES IN LAST MONTH

Summary of Conditions for February in Federal District Given

Statistics gathered for the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco by John Perrin, chairman of the board and federal reserve agent, show business activities in the twelfth federal reserve district continued to expand and increase in February. Mr. Perrin, in his summary of district conditions, said:

"Steady expansion of business activity in this district continued during February, and by the close of that month the high levels of 1923 had been reached or surpassed. Distribution and trade, in particular, are substantially more active than a year ago. Production has been of large volume, notwithstanding recent curtailments of operations in lumbering and copper mining, the result of a temporary excess of output over current consumption. Credit for financing business has been abundant and rates of interest relatively low.

"Checks drawn against individual accounts (bank debits) at banks in twenty clearing house centers, the best index of general business conditions in the district, were 20.4 per cent greater during February, 1924, than during February, 1923. After making due allowance for the normal annual growth of business, this increase still indicates an unusual gain in the total volume of trade.

Increase in Building

"Building enterprise, one of the chief factors affecting general business conditions, has been more than seasonally active, and continuance of activity at high levels is indicated by the figures of building permits issued during February. They were 26.3 per cent greater in number and 18.5 per cent greater in value than during February, 1923, itself a record month in the industry in this district. Building materials prices, according to the index of the United States Bureau of Labor, stood at 182 (1913 prices equal 100) in February, 0.6 per cent above the figure for January, but 5.2 per cent below the February, 1923, figure.

"Of principal interest among factors relating to the productive industries of the district was the reported curtailment of lumber and copper output during the latter part of February, although production of both of these commodities has continued at high levels. Lumber mills of the district, temporaily at least, have produced more lumber than the market will readily absorb at prevailing prices, and a reduction in output has followed. Producers of copper have faced a similar situation and are now reported to have adopted a similar remedy. Production of other principal metals has changed little, although non-statistical reports indicate some expansion in output of lead.

"Production of petroleum in California was 1.2 per cent smaller during February than during January, continuing the downward trend apparent since last September. Consumption of petroleum increased 4.2 per cent during the month and almost equalled production, so that stored stocks increased by a smaller amount than in any month of the past year, except December, 1923. Unemployment during February, 1924, was reported to be slightly larger in volume than during February, 1923, as a result of declining demand for unskilled labor in agriculture and the lumbering and mining industries.

Trade Figures Jump

"Trade at retail, as reported by thirty-five department stores in six principal cities of the district, was 17.7 per cent greater in value during February, 1924, than during February, 1923. Stocks held by these stores at the close of the month were 9.2 per cent larger by value than stocks held a year ago, but were moving from dealers' shelves faster than in the earlier year. Trade at wholesale improved during February, eight of the eleven lines of business for which this bank collects figures, showing increases in value of sales over a year ago. Decreases in value of sales of two of the three remaining lines appeared to be largely the result of price declines over the year period.

"The general level of prices changed little during February, the index number of the United States Bureau of Labor standing at 152 (1913 prices equal 100), compared with 151 a month ago and 157 a year ago. Irregularity characterized the movement of prices of the principal products of this district. Notable general changes were advances in prices of livestock and metals and declines in prices of grains and lumber.

Interest Rates Lower

"Moderate increases in credit needs of the district appeared during the month, total loans of reporting member banks rising approximately $15,000,000 during the four weeks ended March 5. Such loans are now at the highest point reached since January, 1921, when they were first reported separately on member bank statements. Member banks have not found it necessary, thus far, to increase materially their borrowings from the Federal Reserve bank, whose total rediscounts have fluctuated between forty and fifty millions of dollars. At $43,893,000 on March 12, they were $2,000,000 larger than one month ago and approximately equal to the total reported a year ago.

"Interest rates, in view of the abundance of funds available for financing business, have continued relatively low. San Francisco banks report that the prevailing rate charged on customers' prime commercial paper of 90 days' maturity was 5½ per cent during the week ended March 15, 1924, compared with 6½ per cent during March a year ago. Banks in other cities of the district report similar ease in interest rates."

MAN, OBJECTING TO BOBBED HAIR, IS REPRIMANDED

Member of Fair Sex, With Shorn Locks, Voices Her Opinions

Thomas Watts, Glendale bobbed hair critic and avowed enemy of cosmetics, is hereby reprimanded—and by a woman—for a recent plea for what he termed "neglected husbands," couched in a letter to Judge Ralph H. Clock of Los Angeles.

Coincident with the receipt of the letter from the Glendale woman, who signs herself merely "A. M. A. W." comes word from Los Angeles that Edith M. Hussey has been given a decree of divorce because her husband, unlike Mr. Watts, wanted to bob her hair and "be like other girls"! Mrs. Hussey makes a comfortable living by posing with her long hair in drug store windows.

Court Gives O. K.

She was not so sure, she told the court, but what Edwin R. Hussey, her husband, would leave her anyway, so she refused to permit the shears near her flowing tresses. "You are quite right," commented the court, and the decreee was ordered entered into the records today.

Watts, however, dared much when he voiced his opposition to bobbed-hair damsels. He stated in bold language that "women who bob their hair are not the cat's whiskers."

Now comes "A. M. A. W." with her reprimand:

Here's Her Stand

"I wish some people, especially some men, would spend their time arguing and figuring out how to get rid of and also how to stop such awful, harmful things as robberies, murder, the use of liquor and dope, instead of preaching about such little, harmless things as bobbed hair and cosmetics. And a man who wants to divorce his wife for such a little, harmless thing as that without doubt needs a straightening out in his top shelf.

"I do not think there is any woman, no matter how short her hair is bobbed, nor how much cosmetics she uses, thinks more of her personal looks than she does of her husband, if she ever did love him at all.

"Put that in your pipe and smoke it, Thomas Watts!"

Mr. Watts' stand so incensed "A. M. A. W." that she offered to pay advertising rates to be the standard-bearer of her bobbed-hair sisters. She said she didn't care to let her name be known

Realty Transfers Will Aid Check of Reports on Income

Transcripts of all real estate transfers recorded in Southern California during 1923 will be made immediately following the completion of the audit of income tax returns filed up to March 15, under instructions received today by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell.

These transfers of real estate will be checked against income tax returns to ascertain if income derived from profit on real estate was reported. In cases where taxpayers, who failed to report income of this character, voluntarily disclose the items they neglected to include in their returns, mimimum penalties will be imposed, Collector Goodcell said.

If the unreported income is unearthed by the investigations of revenue officials, however, under the law maximum penalties must be asserted. Collector Goodcell advises taxpayers who, owing to a misinterpretation of the law, failed to include real estate profits in their returns, to promptly report the unreported income and file amended returns.

"The government is not unreasonable," he said. "It realizes that in the majority of cases the taxpayer is misled by erroneous construction of the law."

Interior Decoration By Artist Is Praised

The artistry of Agnes Timmons of 325 Roads End, Glendale, is seen in the interior decorations at the new twelve room home of Kemper Campbell in Hollywood. Mr. Campbell and his family were former residents of Glendale.

In directing the work, Mrs. Timmons used about $20,000 for furniture, furnishings, Oriental rugs, grand piano, chinaware and other articles.

Many Glendalians were among the friends of the Campbell family who were received at the new home. In addition many artists and decorators were received and Mrs. Timmons highly complimented on her work. She is now engaged in decorating Mr. Campbell's suite of eight offices in the California building in Los Angeles.

PUBLICATION IS ISSUED BY BOYS IN CASA VERDUGO

Youthful Editors Present Lively Newspaper With Numerous Features

That Glendale is cultivating an ambitious crop of budding journalists is seen in two publications edited and managed by Glendale boys of grammar school age. The Glendale Evenings News has already given mention of the official publication of the Pioneer Notchers, and now takes pleasure in recognizing the Casa Verdugo News, a popular paper in the northwest section of the city.

Its editor is Carl Allebrand, Jr., with Robert Harris, associate editor, Kenneth Reichard, news manager.

They Know News

That these boys, not yet of high school age, have the real news sense is seen by glancing over the columns of their little mimeographed sheet.

Personal mention is a big feature, and building activities, sports, humor, interesting facts, and poetry are also found in the Casa Verdugo News.

In one edition under the heading "Steel King' Wife Arrives in Casa Verdugo" one reads of Mrs. Charles M. Schwab's visiting Mrs. C. F. Allebrand of 1300 North Maryland avenue.

Then in the realm of boys' activities the heading 'Big Fight" tells that "three boys of Casa Verdugo had a terrible fight on Stocker street near the stores. Howard Chase was the center of the fight, the other two boys were not known. After a long, hard fight the remains were cleaned up and nobody was badly hurt."

Strong Man Clue

Violations of public peace are also noted, and under the heading "Tries to Break Safe" one reads, "A man tried to break into a safe of the Union Lime Company in Los Angeles, California. They that tried to break the safe must have been pretty husky for it took two police to lift the piece of iron used."

A good boost for Glendale is given in an item reading, "On the lot at the corner of Stocker and Viola streets two houses are being built. On the back part of the lot one is being built and another on the front part. They are being erected by Contractor George Schaffer. It is being supplied with lumber from

ROAD'S OFFICIALS COME TO SHARE IN CEREMONY

Elaborate Program Marks Formal Transfer of New Depot to City; Long Campaign For Better Facilities Is Successful

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

Amid fitting ceremonies, stirring music and brilliant addresses, the Glendale station of the Southern Pacific Railroad company was formally dedicated last night in the presence of prominent railroad and city officials, and approximately two thousand citizens of Glendale, Pasadena, Burbank, Hollywood and Los Angeles.

The actual dedication ceremonies started at 8:06 p. m., when the "Padre," one of the Southern Pacific's crack through trains from Los Angeles to San Francisco, made the first stop at Glendale. The "Padre" inaugurated a new system on the line, whereby all passenger trains, with the exception of one, will stop to receive and discharge passengers at Glendale.

As the long line of cars which made up the "Padre" came to a halt opposite the new structure representatives of the Southern Pacific and the Pacific Electric alighted from the observation car "Nice" and marched to the speakers' platform to the strains of "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," played by the Glendale Community band.

Band Concert First

Preceding the arrival of the "Padre," the Community band, under the direction of Raymond D. Crawford, 712 South Louise street, presented a band concert lasting more than half an hour. For many of the persons gathered to witness the dedication ceremonies, the concert was their first by Glendale's 100 per cent band.

The community singing which marked the opening of the main part of the program was led by H. S. Robinson of the Community Service. Everyone present, from the humblest Mexican section-hand to the ranking official of the Southern Pacific, stood with bared heads beneath the star-studded sky and raised their voiceces in "America," which was followed by "Old Folks at Home" and "Auld Lang Syne."

For more than an hour before the program started the visitors filed through the new building, inspecting and admiring it.

Hewitt Presided

W. E Hewitt, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, who presided at the ceremonies, spoke briefly on the vast change wrought in Glendale within the last twenty years, and the prospects of a bigger and better Glendale within the next decade. He touched on the new reduction of freight rates between Los Angeles and Glendale, and outlined the value of such a move to the city.

The honor guests were introduced by George B. Karr, president of the Glendale Rotary club. Before introducing each official present, Mr. Karr made a short address, in which he said that an ambition of his childhood days was about to be realized.

"For more years than I can remember," he said, "I have wished for a position where I might be able to tell the 'brass collars' of any railroad to do my bidding, to carry out my orders. Perhaps this ambition comes from working in a railroad junction town, where all railroad officials are more or less held in awe by employes and known only as 'brass collars.' The opportunity has come. Tonight I am going to tell these 'brass collars' to get up when I call their names and make a little bow."

Guests of Honor

Mr. Karr then introduced the following guests of honor: J. H. Dyer, general manager of the Southern Pacific and ranking officer present; A. F. Bowles, assistant superintendent of the Los Angeles division; F. S. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager and personal representative of President Sproule of the Southern Pacific; T. H. Williams, assistant general manager; Thomas Day, freight traffic manager of the Pacific Electric; D. W. Pontius, vice president and general manager, Pacific Electric; F. E. Watson, general passenger agent, Southern Pacific; O. A. Smith, general passenger agent, Pacific Electric; W. H. Whalen, superintendent, Southern Pacific; Jos. Hellen, assistant general passenger agent; H. P. Monahan, district passenger agent; J. E. Light, district freight agent; C. R. Parker, traveling freight agent; A. J. Rehwold, traveling passenger agent; C. L. Thedaker, Glendale agent; H. L. Legrand, city ticket agent; V. B. Stone, city manager of Glendale; S. A. Davis, Asa Hall, C. E. Kimlin and S. S. Gilhuly, members of the City Council of Glendale; R. E. Johnston, president Exchange club; Edward H. Sharpe and L. G. Peterson of the Bureau of News, Southern Pacific; Kenneth McDonald, architect of the building; William Dunkerly, secretary of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce; A. J. Barnes, secretary of the Santa Monica Board of Trade; T. B. Allin, president of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce; George A. Green, director of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, and J. J. Coburn of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce.

Williams Presents Depot

In presenting the station to the city of Glendale, T. H. Williams, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific, gave a brief outline of the initial plans for the structure and the cost of the building and trackage. The building cost approximately $42,000, he said, while the trackage, site, paving, platforms and other necessities brought the figure up to $68,639.

"We prefer to call it the Glendale station instead of the Southern Pacific station," Mr. Williams said. "When the officials of the road saw the rapid growth of Glendale, and realized that Glendale was the logical point to place a station to relieve passenger congestion through Los Angeles, we got busy. The growth of your city has demanded a new station.

"We look to Glendale and the towns this station will serve as the great industrial center of the future. The time is not far off when the road will have to put in six or eight main tracks from Glendale to Burbank, for the industries are coming, and with industries will come a demand for

EDUCATION FOR PEACE IS GOAL OF CLUB WOMEN

Delegates to Convention Will Concentrate on Leading Topic

Club women of the Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs, will unite their hearts and minds on the great theme, "Education for Peace," Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 8, 9 and 10, when they will meet for their twenty-third annual convention at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse in Glendale, the home city of their president, Mrs. Charles H. Toll.

It will be a three day feast on the cultural and spiritual with hundreds of club women present from all parts of Los Angeles county and counties to the north. National, state, district and individual club officers and members will be in attendance.

Dr. Jordan to Speak

In view of the dominating theme of the convention it is most fitting that Dr. David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, is to be the most prominent speaker on the convention program.

Other speakers will be Dr. Franklin Thomas Baker, professor in the teachers' college of Columbia university; Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, California director for the General Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. David Lindley Murray, chairman of credentials, badges and elections for the general federation; Anne M. Godfrey, educational representative of the naturalization service of the United States department of labor; Mrs. Mab Copeland Lineman, lecturer in the University of California extension department, and chairman of legislation for the Los Angeles district.

Preceding as it does the state convention in May in Pasadena, and the Biennial of the General

EXCESSIVE TAX ON ROOSTERS IN CITY IS URGED

Fair Advocate of Peaceful Mornings Will Fight for End of Crows

Roosters and their lusty crowing organs received another blow in the solar plexus today and the patient sufferer who recently tearfully voiced his protest to The Glendale Evening News and urged that mufflers be provided for all male poultry, got an ardent supporter in the person of Marian E. Warren, 640 North Maryland avenue.

"Just read the righteous complaint of the 'sufferer' from loud and blatant rooster crowing," she writes. "He has our sympathy. Tell him we are 'wid 'im' to the last ditch—and wish that it was full of dead roosters.

"Why a Rooster?"

"Why a rooster, anyway? Why, indeed? If the dear people who move into our fair city from the outlying districts must keep chickens, then let them confine their efforts to laying hens, but speedily and effectually eliminate the useless rooster.

"Let everybody, who has suffered as we, now raise his voice in one swelling chorus until the city council shall pass a law which will tax all male birds so heavily that no one will wish to harbor one as an ornament. Next!

"MARIAN E. WARREN."

The sufferer who fired the first gun in the crusade against Glendale roosters says he has tried everything else; that there is now only the recourse to law. He bought 'em and ate fried chicken until he was tired of the sight of fowls. And his misery was doubled when he learned that the owners had taken the money he paid them, bought more roosters than they had before and then raised the price when they learned he was in the market.

PICK COOLIDGE AS LOGICAL NOMINEE

Lineberger, at L. A. Dinner, Lauds President as Man for High Place

"The one logical candidate of the Republican party and the only leader who has demonstrated ability to cope with the problems now confronting the nation is Calvin Coolidge," Walter F. Lineberger, ninth California district congressman, declared before more than 300 Los Angeles county Republicans in Los Angeles.

Both Congressman Lineberger and Congressman John D. Fredericks spoke on the merits of the Coolidge administration; gave reasons for maintaining it, and described pending legislation. This was the first of a series of luncheon meetings which will be conducted by Los Angeles county Republicans during the next few weeks, at which nationally known persons will be guests of honor and speakers.

Compared to Lincoln

"Not since the time of Abraham Lincoln has there been a man in the White House with such a wide range of potential qualities as Calvin Coolidge," Congressman Lineberger declared. A direct message to Southern California was given by Congressman Fredericks, who said that a few hours before leaving Washington he had asked the president what he might say for him upon arriving in Los Angeles. The reply was, "You may express my best wishes and regards."

The Boulder dam is one of the great national developments which are to be sponsored by President Coolidge, according to Congressman Lineberger. He stated that the chief executive will assist in bringing about this great development along the most practical lines which are presented. The immigration bill was described by the ninth congressional district representative as probably the most important measure which is now pending in Congress.

Garland Presided

Congressman Fredericks declared that the attacks which had been made on certain individuals and the means which have been employed in making these attacks have been vicious. The American practice, he said, is not to make public charges against any man until there is some reason to believe that they can be substantiated. He also stated that Democratic leaders in the Senate have brought charges based on nothing more than hearsay evidence, "even so remote as the fourth degree," for the sole purpose of discrediting honest and honorable men."

William May Garland, Coolidge delegate candidate on the May primary ballot and president of the Los Angeles Community Development Association, presided at the meeting. He was introduced by Frank Merriam, speaker of the last session of the California Assembly and a member of the Coolidge campaign committee.

'TURKEN' LATEST FARMYARD FOWL

Cross Between Turkey and Rhode Island Red Hen Makes Appearance

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—The "turken," a new denizen of the barnyard, has made its appearance on the poultry farm of Miss A. Luther, at Meridian Corners, Santa Clara county, according to reports received by the state department of agriculture.

This strange fowl is a cross between a turkey gobbler and a Rhode Island Red hen. It is described as somewhat larger than a chicken, and much hardier than either of the species to which its paternal and maternal ancestors respectively belong.

Turkens present physical characteristics combining the peculiarities of gobbler and chicken. They have long, bare necks, deep red in color, and strut with the turkey trot of their male parent, while the remainder of the body resembles in plumage and contour that of gallinus domesticus.

Eggs In Demand

G. H. Hecke, chief of the department of agriculture, when asked if the second generation of this barnyard addition would propagate, confessed himself unable to answer.

"I am inclined to await developments," said Hecke. "It may be the turken, like the mule, will turn out to be a lusus naturae, 'without pride of ancestry or hope of posterity.'"

Meantime it is reported that the eggs are in heavy demand by poultry raisers, who have heard that the flesh of the hybrid is as good as the finest turkey meat.

Indictments Charge Trust Law Violation

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 28.—Forty-eight individuals and forty-seven corporations, members of the American Malleable Castings association, were indicted by a federal grand jury here yesterday, charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictment charges that the individual and corporate members conspired together to control prices and purchases of malleable castings throughout the United States. The government alleged that more than 75 per cent of the automotive, railroad and other castings used in the United States are produced by members of the association.

SENATE PLANS TO ALTER TAX RATE

Warring Factions Settle on Maximum Surtax of Forty Per Cent

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A general tax bill that has for its maximum surtax 40 per cent instead of the 37½ that finally was agreed upon between the warring Republican factions in the House and incorporated in the Longworth compromise, is in prospect as the Senate finance committee continues to wrestle with the measure.

A survey of sentiment in the Senate indicated that it is going to out-do the house in wrecking the carefully prepared scale of rates originally laid down by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, calling for a normal tax of 3 per cent and a maximum surtax of 25 per cent.

Force Show Down

The action of Republican leaders in writing the Mellon rates back into the bill was merely a gesture. It was designed to force a show-down vote on the original Mellon bill, possibly to further demonstrate to President Coolidge the utter hopelessness of trying to pass the Mellon bill as originally written.

Once the Mellon rates are voted down, as they will be on the first showdown, the Democrats and insurgent Republicans plan to get together and, as in the House, write their own figures into the bill. They plan to leave the normal tax as fixed by Longworth at 2 per cent and raise the maximum surtax to 40 per cent. Some are even predicting 44 per cent but the majority opinion favors 40.

The line-up in the Senate is almost identical with that of the House—the Republican regulars favoring the 25 per cent surtax, the insurgents favoring 50 per cent and the Democrats striking the middle ground of 40. On a showdown the La Follette insurgents will come down to the Democratic figure because they have no other place to go. And, as demonstrated in a score of tests, the Democrats and the insurgents can control legislation any time they stick together.

Must Approve Bill

Had the resolution providing a separate 25 per cent reduction on 1923 incomes gone through, as urged by the president and Secretary Mellon, there is little doubt that he would have vetoed the general tax bill and rested his political fortunes on the November referendum.

But with an election approaching, the country aroused for tax reduction and the issue presented to the White House of accepting either the compromise tax bill or nothing, the belief persists in well informed quarters that the president will be compelled to approve the bill.

MERGER PROBLEM UPSETS CITIZENS

Tranquility of Once Peaceful Valley Ends at Talk Of Incorporation

By F. A. GRAHAM
Of The Evening News Staff.

Incorporation petitions have become so numerous in Tujunga that the long-suffering voters are now suffering from attacks of the "heebie jeebies." Some want an incorporated city and ask for an election; some want no city and no election; some want the other fellow to have his property incorporated with theirs left out; some want to be left out; some wanted to get out and now want back in; those who are in want out and those who are out are afraid they can't stay out if the others get in.

Both sides laugh heartily at anything that happens, provided it doesn't happen to them. All factions are busy tossing bouquets at each other, not bothering to remove the vases. Arguments become so heated that the participants' corns begin popping.

Housewives have signed so many papers that all stationery affects them the same way your red flannels do a gentleman cow. Some signers have contradicted themselves so many times on petition papers that there is a suspicion going the rounds that they are twins or triplets. Any man who approaches a house carrying papers takes his life in his butter-fingered hands.

Has Narrow Escape

Wallace M. Morgan, president of the Tujunga school board, nearly had his whiskers bobbed close to his complextion one day when he approached two ladies who had served on the election board, who had neglected to sign some of the election papers. He had the papers in his hand and before he could say a word one of the ladies stated emphatically, in no uncertain terms, that she would not sign another petition. The other lady demanded excitedly: "Now what? What have you got to sign now? Don't you come around here with any more of those petitions, Wallace Morgan. I'll not sign them, and that's final!"

Mr. Morgan finally succeeded in explaining his mission and the atmosphere settled somewhat, but he conceals all papers in his inside pocket since then.

Rattlesnakes will be used by the United States army in making experiments with mustard gas, phosgene and chlorine, near San Marcos, Tex.

Lake Tahoe Depth Is Reached at 1586 Feet

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—Time-honored Indian beliefs that Lake Tahoe is bottomless again have been disproven by recent soundings undertaken by the United States Geodetic Survey, showing an extreme depth of 1586 feet, directly east of Tahoe City and almost in the center of the lake.

Nevertheless, it is believed Lake Tahoe is the deepest inland body of water in North America. Neither Lakes Superior, Michigan nor Erie rival the California lake in depth.

Near Rubicon point the plummet dropped 1454 feet before it settled in the silt bottom, and in Crystal bay a depth of 1448 feet was registered. Emerald bay is comparatively shallow, the line recording but 247 feet.

Compared with ocean depths, however, Lake Tahoe is the merest shallow. Nero's Deep, between Guam and the Philippines in the Pacific, is a gigantic basin with its bottom over six miles below the surface of the ocean, it was stated.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Held to Answer," Metro's strong emotional drama, with House Peters, Grace Carlyle and "Bull" Montana, continues at the Glendale theater. The film is an adaptation of the Peter Clark MacFarlane novel of that name, directed by Harold Shaw.

The story is that of an actor who, disillusioned by an unhappy love affair, turns to preaching. His reputation and popularity as a preacher are seriously threatened when he is falsely accused of theft by an actress whose love he has rejected.

MacFarlane has turned out one of his finest stories in "Held to Answer" and it has been brought to the screen in a capable manner. There are numberless highly dramatic scenes, several genuine thrills and the cast could hardly be improved upon.

By using a cork which expands with air pressure from within the bottle there is less evaporation of perfumes and other expensive liquids, a Frenchman claims.

THE GATEWAY

"Through the Dark," Cosmopolitan picturization of "The Daughter of Mother McGinn," one of the most popular of the "Boston Blackie" stories by Jack Boyle, continues at the Gateway theater today and tomorrow.

Colleen Moore, in the leading role of Mary McGinn, reaches new pantomimic heights and shows to excellent advantage in the scene where she is revealeld as the daughter of a crook. Forrest Stanley is at all times capable as "Boston Blackie," and Margaret Seddon adds another to her long list of excellent mother characterizations, this time as "Mother McGinn." Others in the excellent cast include Eddie Phillips, Hobart Bosworth, Carmelita Geraghty, George Cooper, Wade Boteler, Tom Bates and others.

WOMEN WIN TAX FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 28.—The women of California have won their tax fight. The United States treasury department ruled that they will be permitted to file separate income tax returns Hitherto husbands and wives were compelled to file joint returns. As a result of the decision, more than one hundred million dollars will be refunded to husbands and wives who have been overtaxed in the past by the filing of joint returns, which placed their taxes in the higher brackets.

PEACE EDUCATION GOAL OF MEMBERS

Federation in June in Los Angeles, the district convention program will include outlines of plans for these two great gatherings.

Mrs. Toll Presides

The opening session of the district gathering in Glendale will be Tuesday, April 8 at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. Toll presiding as president of the district, and Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of the California Federation, also presiding.

Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the First Congregational church of Glendale, will give the opening invocation.

There will follow greetings from state director, state president, past state and district presidents, visiting presidents, state officers, general and state federation chairmen.

At this session Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, will report for the local board, and there will follow reports from procedure committees, business committees, the treasurer and from county presidents.

In the late afternoon tea will be served in the banquet room, where exhibits will be arranged by various chairmen.

Will Greet Guests

Mrs. Daniel Campbell will preside at the meeting in the evening. She will give greetings from the hostess club and Mayor Spencer Robinson will give greetings from the city. There will be responses from Mrs. Toll and Mrs. Urquhart, representing the district and the state. Dr. Jordan's address will be given at this time.

Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator of the music department of the Tuesday Afternoon club, has arranged the musical program for the evening. After the program there will be a reception in the lounge.

The impressive club convention litany used at the opening of programs of the General Federation meeting in Washington in January will be used at the Wednesday morning meeting. A feature of this morning meeting will be a club institute conducted by Mrs. Robert J. Burdette.

Press Luncheon

At noon the annual press luncheon will be held at the Egyptian Village with club presidents, press chairmen and newspaper women in attendance.

During the afternoon session Mrs. Charles H. Toll and her vice president, Mrs. J. B. Lorbeer, will preside. Mrs. Charles F. van de Water, chairman of resolutions, will give the first reading of resolutions and Mrs. Lineman will give her address on "Intelligent Citizenship."

Later the club women will enjoy motor trips about Glendale and tea at the Oakmont Country club.

The program Wednesday night will be devoted to the three arts, drama, music and literature.

Thursday morning Mrs. van de Water will give the final reading of resolutions, and at the luncheon Anne M. Godfrey will give an address on "The Responsibility of the Federated Clubs in the Present Crisis."

Presiding in the morning will be Mrs. Toll, Mrs. O. C. Houghton of Inyo county and Mrs. C. J. Trussler of San Luis Obispo county. In the afternoon Mrs. Toll will be assisted by Mrs. John Woods Dorrance of Santa Barbara county and Mrs. Alton L. Drown of Ventura county. Mrs. Murray will give her address "Biennial Values."

Annual Banquet

The annual federation banquet will take place Thursday night. At that time Mrs. John C. Urquhart will give the state president's message, and Dr. Baker will give his address, "Education for Peace, the Obligation of the Schools."

Throughout the convention program there will be reports from the various clubs in the district, as well as reports from the district chairmen.

Noon luncheons are to be served Wednesday and Thursday at the First Congregational church.

Exhibit of Paintings

A special feature of the exhibits in the banquet room at the clubhouse will be an art exhibition of fourteen canvases, selected with a view to making it as nearly representative of California art as possible. Nearly all of these are prize-winning pictures.

On Wednesday and Thursday mornings there will be conferences at 8:45 o'clock. The conference Wednesday morning will have for a subject "The Coming Biennial," with Mrs. John F. Mead, vice-president of the California local biennial board, presiding. On Thursday morning the theme will be "International Relations," with Mrs. Lloyd Galpin, chairman of that activity for the district, presiding.

In the musicians appearing at various times, Glendale is proud to note that one group are pupils of Virginia Freeman, and another group pupils of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing. Mrs. H. R. Boyer and Mrs. Gertrude Erb, both of Glendale, are among the accompanists.

LUNCH IN HONOR OF WILLYS HELD

Dealers and Distributors Gather to Meet Head Of Auto Company

Thursday was a red-letter day for distributors and dealers of the Overland and Willys-Knight cars in Southern California, as over five hundred of them were entertained at a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel in honor of John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, and factory associates, who made a two days' visit in Los Angeles.

Mr. Willys was the principal speaker, and the high lights of his address were that the country is in a more prosperous condition than at any time since the war; that labor conditions are normal; that the Willys-Overland Company will put a business man's coupe on the market that will sell for $650 about April 15, and will establish an assembling plant on the Pacific coast during the next eight months.

Other members of the factory organization who made talks were: Leroy G. Peede, sales manager, and Ward M. Canady, director of advertising.

Smith-Sloan company of Glendale, local agents for the Overland and Willys-Knight motor cars, was represented by Geo. T. Smith, B. W. Sloan and their sales force.

ENGINE DEFENDANT

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—"One Ford automobile, engine No. 6814019," was made defendant in a suit filed today in the superior court in behalf of the people of California. The vehicle must show cause why it should not be sold at auction. Court attaches today were worried for fear the law would require the presence of the defendant in the courtroom when the hearing is held. The car was arrested with its owner for violating the Wright act.

REALTORS OFFER LECTURE COURSE

Haddock-Nibley Co. to Hold Series of Classes at Glendale Office

An eight-week course of lectures on "Salesmanship" is announced by Lon J. Haddock of the Haddock-Nibley company, realtors, whose interests are largely centered at the present time in Rossmoyne, known as "the Happyland" tract.

The lectures will be at 7:30 o'clock each Wednesday night for eight weeks, at the Egyptian Temple on North Verdugo road. They are entirely free and all who wish to take the course may apply to P. J. Cannon, sales manager of the Haddock-Nibley company, at the Egyptian Temple.

This will be the same course of lectures Mr. Haddock is now delivering at the University of Southern California. The first lecture will be given Wednesday night, April 2.

"The time has come to stop 'taking orders' and start 'selling' Southern California real estate," is the way Mr. Haddock explains the motive back of the course.

PARENTS TO TEST HOT LUNCH PLAN

Question of Expense to Be Settled by Committee Of Mothers

The regular monthly meeting of the local Parent-Teacher association was very well attended, and a most interesting program offered those present. The business conducted was most important, as the mothers have long wanted to try out the hot lunch system in the school.

Putting the question to a vote, a motion was made and carried whereby the president of the Parent-Teacher association will appoint a committee to take charge of the matter of expense, giving the hot lunch system a fair trial.

One hundred dollars of the money raised by "Si Slocum's Country Store" will be suitably expended for some definite purpose for the Montrose school, it was decided. A committee from that vicinity will decide what is best and most needed in the branch school. A couch and blankets will also be purchased for the La Crescenta school for the care of children who may be taken ill or hurt on the school property.

Children Give Program

After the business was finished a program was given by the children of the first grade, under direction of Mrs. Greenberg. Readings were given, after which clever dramatized versions of "The Little Kittens" and "The Three Bears' were given in costume by the little tots. Miss Eleanor Clark of Montrose sang two songs, one a lullaby and the second an old-fashioned love song.

The speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Shelton Bissell, president of this district, spoke on the different outside influences which tend to make or mar a child's outlook on life. The speaker stressed the old-time revival meeting, saying it did not seem possible that in this day and age any mother could wish her child to hear such obsolete ideas.

Mrs. Bissell said the Parent-Teacher association stands for more good than clubs and church or other outside interests.

Santa Monica Meet

A very important district convention was held yesterday in Santa Monica in connection with the Parent-Teacher association work in Los Angeles district, which all mothers were urged to attend.

Mrs. Bissell will go to the national convention, to be held in St. Paul, as the representative of this district.

After the program, delicious sandwiches and coffee were served by the domestic science pupils, under the tutelage of Miss Edith Rhae, who has charge of the domestic science classes.

Little Betty Angier is nursing a broken arm. She received the injury falling off the slide in the school playground.

Plenty of Rain

Commencing Tuesday night, about 10 o'clock, the clouds sent down the rain by the proverbial bucketful, and it's keeping up. The parched earth of sunny California can no longer sing "How Dry I Am." The rain is certainly making everything cheery on the bosom of Mother Earth, as the lawns up here needed a good drenching.

Many delightful affairs have been given at the Oakmont Country club since its opening, which was probably the most brilliant social function of the season.

Some of the following luncheon and dinner parties have been held there in the past two weeks:

Dinner Parties

Mr. Walters gave a charming birthday dinner in honor of his wife, having five guests at his table. A beautiful birthday cake from the Oakmont cuisine formed the centerpiece of the dinner table. E. J. Ohlson presided at a dinner table set for ten guests, while H. B. Woodell had covers for eight guests at his table.

Mrs. Reuthal entertained a party of twelve friends at a smart bridge luncheon. Mrs. E. W. Herstman had sixteen guests at her bridge luncheon party. Monsieur Paine Persira had a select party of five guests at dinner the other evening.

Mrs. Simon entertained eight guests at a bridge luncheon recently. Mrs. Cook gave a brilliant dinner dance for a party of ten guests.

The paper drive is on for the school. If you have old magazines and papers you wish to dispose of, the school children will be glad to get them for their drive. Just bundle them up, and the trucks will pick them up on Saturday.

Governor Postpones Good Friday Hangings

SACRAMENTO, March 28.—Believing that Good Friday, April 18, should not be marred in its observance by the hanging of three murderers at San Quentin, Governor Friend W. Richardson has granted a short respite from the rope to Isaac Wolfgang, Willard Thompson and Walter Briggshurst, all of Los Angeles.

"Friday, April 18, will be Good Friday, a day revered by all Christians," said the governor. "If any superior judge has sentenced a person to be executed on that day I will postpone the execution until a later date. This does not mean that I propose to interfere with the execution of the law, the verdicts of juries or the sentences of judges.

"I will do this because the judge who fixed the date evidently was not advised that April 18 was Good Friday, and would not have fixed that day had his attention been called to it."

BURBANK

MANY STREETS TO HAVE NEW NAMES

Planning Commission Will Call for Adoption of Uniform System

Many Burbank street names will be changed, should the development program set in motion by the Regional and Los Angeles Planning commissions be carried out, according to F. Curt Miller, city engineer.

For example, Central avenue will become Burbank boulevard, Verdugo avenue will become Camarilo avenue, Empire avenue will become Vanowen avenue, Clark avenue will become Morrison avenue, Aliso street will become Frieburg avenue, Magnolia avenue will become Magnolia boulevard and Sherman Way will extend from Lankershim on both sides of the Chatsworth line of the S. P. railway to Main street. Oak street and Riverside drive will retain their present names.

The object of the commissions is to effect uniform names for San Fernando valley boulevards, streets and avenues. While at present most of these streets connect with streets in Lankershim and extend until they eventually connect with Ventura boulevard, they change their names when they cross the city limits of Burbank and Lankershim. The program as proposed would be a give-and-take affair, such communities as Lankershim and Van Nuys changing many of their street names as well as Burbank.

Yes, We Have Trustees!

Not all of the eleven candidates for City Trustees can be elected, as there are only three vacancies to be filled. "It is evidently a more popular office than mine," says F. S. Webster, city clerk, who is the only candidate for election to that office for the coming term.

The eleven who would aid in deciding the destines of Burbank are: P. M. Anderson, T. V. Walker, Harry E. Bertrand, Pietro Romeo, Myer L. Alpert, John Nielsen, Charles E. Hams, Elmer J. Jackson, Henry W. Rouscup and Russell B. Mullen.

Three candidates crave the position of city treasurer: Charles B. Fischer, holding it now, A. C. Gage and W. E. Smith.

Struck by two automobiles in as many seconds is the tale A. H. Nash has lived to tell. The accident happened on San Fernando boulevard. Knocked down by the first car, he was hit and wooled around by a second before he could get to his feet. He then rose and walked disgustedly away. A local hopsital made the repairs and he says he is now as good as ever.

Among the many charming affairs held at Oakmont Country club was a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, who entertained as their guests Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dissolution Sale

A dissolution sale is being held by the firm of Miller & Charbanun in their place of business. This firm has conducted a furniture and plumbing shop. Though dissolving the partnership, these two business men will retain their present quarters, but will be independent agents.

Mr. Eyre, who has been connected with the Stuart Chevrolet agency, has gone into the used car market as an independent dealer. Mr. Eyre will handle machines on a commission basis.

Weather permitting, Mr. and Mrs. George Carson, Miss Annie Carson and Miss Ruth Fogg of Readfield, Maine, will motor to San Diego for a few days' visit.

The Leegion buddies heard a lecture on the Boulder plan project last night at Sparr Heights Community house. Barney Goss told about the project while L. E. Moselle of Los Angeles Department of Public Service showed the pictures.

KEEP SUNDAY, IS PLEA OF PASTOR

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Gives Views on Observance of Sabbath Day

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, who is preaching a series of sermons on "The Ten Commandments," gives some interesting facts concerning the commandment, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." He says:

"Sunday is the core of civilization. Sabbath is a bulwark of vital Christianity. Vital Christianity is a bulwark of the nation.

Called Cornerstone

"Sunday must continue Sunday. We need the Sunday of our mothers. Keep our social life what it should be.

"The religious observance of Sunday is the main prop of the religious character of the country.

"Sunday is the most valuable blessing ever conceded to man. It is the cornerstone of all civilization.

"If America loses her Sabbath, she loses herself.

"Without Sunday there can never be a successful American republic."

New Calendar By 1928 Likely, Says Scientist Who Favors 13-Month Year

By E. H. HAUENSTEIN
For International News Service

WOOSTER, O., March 28.—"Prospects are favorable for the adoption of a new calendar by 1928," said Dr. B. F. Yanney, professor of mathematics and astronomy at College of Wooster, in commenting upon plans just announced for a world congress of scientists to be held the coming Fall. Indications from various parts of the scientific world, he said, are that favorable action will be taken on a calendar that will divide the year into thirteen months of twenty-eight days each, with one extra day in the year and two extra days in leap year.

Discussing the history of the calendar and past revisions which have led up to the present calendar, Dr. Yanney said:

"In essential features the calendar in general use today is of Roman origin. The year of twelve lunar months, with a biennial intercalation of a briefer month had been in use among the Romans several centuries previous to the time of Julius Caesar. What he did was to break away, as the Egyptians had already done, from the lunar month and to arrange the 365 days into twelve months, six having 31 days each, five having 30 days each and one, February, with 29 days. He introduced also the leap-year feature by decreeing that in every fourth year February should have 30 days. For a mere whim Augustus Caesar changed this arrangement of the days among the months to the arrangment as we have it today.

Week Introduced

"The weekly feature was introduced by one of the Christian emperors several centuries later. Church festal days were later also strung along on different dates. With these added features, what had previously been rather simple in plan became somewhat difficult of management and led to much confusion in the sixteenth century.

"Pope Gregory XIII, on the advice of men of science of his day, had the rule changed to what it is at present, and, to correct the error that had accumulated to ten days, he arranged what would, under the Julian calendar, have been October the 5th should be regarded as the 15th. This simple reform was not for some years adopted by the Protestant nations and those under the dominance of the Eastern Catholic church. In fact, only last year was the change made by a number of those latter churches.

"The two outstanding calendar reforms, the one inaugurated by Julius Caesar and the other by Pope Gregory, were due largely to well-nigh intolerable conditions into which accumulated errors and inconveniences of the calendar had brought it. With the advance of civilization new forms of irregularities and inconveniences have arisen, so that there has developed a growing demand for a simpler and more efficient style of calendar.

Points Defects

Defects in the present calendar were pointed out by Dr. Yanney as follows:

1. Fourteen styles of yearly calendar.
2. Eleven varieties of months.
3. Twenty-eight varieties of years, recurring in cycles of 400 years.

"But this messing up of the calendar," Dr. Yanney continued, "may be considered from another standpoint. Consider any date of the month—as the 4th, for instance. In the course of a year it may be anything from Sunday to Saturday. So with every other month date, with but one curious exception. In any year the 31st of the months escapes one of the day names. This year—1924—has no 31st falling on a Thursday.

"Hence, who can tell without looking up the calendar on what day of the week any given date of the month falls? For this reason it is necessary, if an event as an election is to be fixed on a certain day of the week, to say in a roundabout way it is to be held on the 'first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

"Then there is the very unsymmetric distribution of weeks and fractions of weeks over the months. Take this year as an example. Seven of its months spread over three full weeks and fractions of two weeks. Two months are each spread over four weeks and a fraction of a week, and three each spread over four full weeks and fractions of two weeks.

"The 52 weeks and two days are thus spread over the 12 months as 41 full weeks and 22 part weeks."

Calendar Inadequate

In other ways, Dr. Yanney said, the present calendar is inadequate to meet business and scientific demands. Among the objections he pointed out were:

1. The months, being of different lengths and having the bad habit of breaking off at all unseasonable times of the week, make it practically impossible to reduce scientifically worked out results and business plans to present calendar months, as results grouped in monthly totals are misleading, and monthly averages in many cases are meaningless.
2. Scientific units of governmental service, as well as other forms of service organizations, are finding their work hampered by the restrictions imposed by a defective calendar.

Two remedies were pointed out by Dr. Yanney.

The so-called "French plan" consists of four like groups of three months each, the months being named as now, and the last one of each group having 31 days and the others having 30 days.

"This arrangement," he pointed out, "leaves an extra day in a common year and two extra days in a leap year. It is proposed further that each year shall begin on the same day of the week, so that each day of the year shall have a fixed name. The extra days are to be given special names, but not week-day names, and they may be attached or not to some month or months. They are proposed to be regarded as universal holidays.

"The other plan is much simpler. It is to have the year proper consist of thirteen months of four weeks each, with each year beginning on the same day of the week, probably Sunday. The extra day of a common year and the two extra days of a leap year to be given special names and to be regarded as universal holidays, as in the other plan proposed.

Makes It Uniform

"This would give only one kind of monthly calendar, and we would all soon learn to know that the fourth of any month, for example, would be Wednesday.

"International organization is already well developed in the direction of adoption of a simpler style of calendar. A congress of the nations of the globe is to convene next Autumn to decide on the calendar to be suggested for world use."

If this congress decides upon the 13-month plan, Dr. Yanney said, it will settle all matters of detail, such as the day on which the years are to begin, the year when the new style shall be launched, the name and position of the new or thirteenth month, the names of the extra days and the months to which they are to be attached, if attached at all, and perhaps also the fixing of Easter, Christmas and so on.

After this, Dr. Yanney concluded, legislative resolutions will be offered in all countries, so that the national holidays may be fixed in accordance with the new calendar.

"If these things work out," he added, "the world will then have a simple, workable, perpetual calendar, good for at least 3,000 years, when perhaps another, though very slight, adjustment, will have to be made for leap years, affecting, however, only millennial years, as Pope Gregory's amendment affected only centurial years."

Border Vice Will Get Mexicans' Attention

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—Impending drastic measures by the Mexican government to squelch vice conditons in the border towns were revealed by Juan R. Platt, treasurer of the National Railways of Mexico, in an interview after his arrival here today.

"Before I left Mexico, General Rodriguez told me he had been definitely instructed by President Obregon to clean up all of the Mexican border towns, including Tia Juana and Mexicali. It is even probable that General Rodriguez will issue orders prohibiting the sale of liquor to Americans in Mexico," declared Platt, who did not spare Americans in his opinion of their conduct when given the liberties enjoyed by Mexicans.

VENIZELOS WILL TAKE LONG REST IN SOUTH FRANCE

Former Premier of Greece Out of Politics; Now At Cannes

PARIS, Mar. 28.—Eleutherios Venizelos, ex-Premier of Greece, upon arriving at Cannes declared he had the intention of making a long sojourn in the south of France. His principal preoccupation for the moment is to obtain repose after the trying weeks which he passed in Greece. Mr. Venizelos was always reluctant to return to public life and did so because he was eventually persuaded that he could appease the passions of the people.

Personal opposition and disagreement with the policy pursued drove Mr. Venizelos out of Greek politics again, and it is now unlikely that he will be induced ever to resume the task. While Mr. Venizelos was in the Riviera, pourparlers begun by him with Royalist chiefs, and afterwards continued, have resulted in a projected accord under which King George would voluntarily abdicate and be enabled to retain title and receive four-fifths of the civil list as a pension, besides disposing freely of the Crown domain, except that of Tatoi.

Other members of the dynasty must renounce their rights to the succession.

FLORENCE, Mar. 28.—Signor Bandi, editor of the Nuovo Giornale, aspires to be a modern D'Artagnan.

Bandi took exception to two articles published in the Idea Fascistica, of Pisa, and challenged the editor, Lieutenant Gualnai, to a duel. Gualnai accepted responsibility for one of the articles, but replied that the other had been signed by twenty-seven men, hence he could not be held responsible.

Bandi instructed his seconds, in the event that Gualnai still refused to accept responsibility, to send challenges to each of the twenty-seven signatories of the second article.

STATE CONTROL OF WIRELESS IS BRITAIN'S PLAN

Empire Radio Telegraphy Committee Recommends Complete Monopoly

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service

LONDON, March 28.—Wireless communication in England will become a virtual state monopoly if the report of the Empire Wireless Telegraphy committee is adopted. There will also be developed, if the committee's report prevails, a huge system of wireless communication that will link together the various parts of the British Empire.

The most important of the committee's recommendations is that the government should own all empire wireless stations in Great Britain for communication with England's overseas dominions, colonies and protectorates. For the accomplishment of this a construction program involving an expenditure of approximately $4,000,000 is advocated.

Private enterprise would not be interfered with, the committee declares, in the development of communication between England and foreign countries. In fact, the committee advocates "that private enterprise be given facilities to develop wireless communication with Continental Europe, as with the rest of the world outside the British Empire."

Let Marconi Alone

In this connection it is made clear that the government does not contemplate competition with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company in existing services between England and Canada. The committee recommends that the existing Marconi service be regarded as a "fait accompli."

The right of the government, however, to take over licenses granted to private companies in case of emergency is asserted. Thus, should sufficient emergency arise, the government could seize and operate the services of the Marconi company or any other private concern.

It is recommended that the empire wireless stations which the committee proposes be established be equipped with all modern devices and so constructed as to be capable of world communication. If Marconi patents are used, it is advised, the government has power to use any patented invention,

Empress' Jewels Still for Sale Cheap in Paris

PARIS, March 28.—Wanted: A rich uncle from America. The jewels of Empress Eugenia, put on sale the 18th of January of last year, have not yet found a buyer. They consist of a lot of pearls the size of a pigeon's egg. Their weight and size make them difficult to wear, and even a minimum price of £2,500 has not been offered.

Even Napoleonic headgear attracted little excitement among the bidders at the Hotel Drouot last week. Authentic documents proved that the Emperor had worn the particular little chapeau in question, but it was easily knocked down for a mere $60.

Japanese Sees Suffragists in Hair Pulling Row

Disagreement Between Two Speakers Results in Physical Combat

TOKIO, March 28.—The advent of women in politics in Japan, one of the outward evidences of the determination by the Japanese people to have more and more to do with the management of the government, has been accomplished, not without its trials to the women who lead the way.

Even among the feminine speakers themselves there has been some sign of discord. Recently, at the Buddhist hall in Kanda Ward, Tokio, Mrs. Y. Ogino, a speaker against the "tyrannical government of peers," became displeased with Mrs. M. Yamaguchi, a writer for the Osaka Labor Weekly, who was loud in her disagreements with the speaker of the evening. Descending from the platform where she had been speaking, Mrs. Ogino walked straight to the feminine heckler and proceeded to pull Mrs. Yamaguchi's hair. The intervention of friends saved the two women from any serious injury, but their disagreement ended what had promised to be a very successful meeting in defense of "Japan's new women."

Test Shows System Will Beat Monte Carlo's Bank If Croupiers Permit It

LONDON, March 28.—Countless systems for "beating the bank" at Monte Carlo have been devised and tried. Some have met with temporary success; more have been complete failures. The bank has "taken on" the systems as they came along and has managed to continue doing business at the old stand. The Hon. Seton R. Beresford, son of a British peer and one of England's best known sportsmen, has devised a system, however, which he declares could put Monte Carlo out of business in six months if all the gamblers at that famosu resort followed it. He does not claim that his system would "break the bank," but asserts that it would reduce the winnings of the Casino to a point where it would not be profitable to continue operating.

Early in February Beresford and a few associates tried out the system at the Monte Carlo tables with significant results. In three days they were able to pile up winnings of 28,000 francs, or about $1500 at present rates of exchange.

Ahead in Six Day Test

Beresford and his companions gave the system a six days' test, playing three days at trente et quarante and three days at roulette. They limited their capital each day to 3000 francs. They lost 4000 francs at roulette, but won 32,000 at trente et quarante.

Beresford's system is based on co-operative play. His idea is that in order to beat the bank thoroughly a majority of the daily players at the Casino must syndicate their efforts. They must determine upon a plan of united action in opposition to the bank, massing their capital in a combined attack.

The trouble with the system Beresford frankly admits, is not that it won't work, but that the rules of the Casino militate against extensive co-operative play. The authorities do not permit unlimited co-operation, and this prevents the general combination of gamesters that would be necessary to "break the bank." Under the present rules of the Casino only a limited number of players may combine, and, while the combination may win a neat profit for its members, it is not likely to win enough to seriously inconvenience the bank.

Studies Other Games

Beresford has been a close student of games of chance for years. Fifteen years ago he engineered a coup at Monte Carlo that was sufficiently profitable to enable him to go to New York and establish himself in business. He has incorporated his theories of gambling in a book entitled "The Future of Monte Carlo." It was the system outlined in this book which he recently tried out at Monte Carlo.

In addition to his system for beating the bank, Beresford also has a system for "beating the bookies" on the races. He claims that this system, scientifically pursued, furnishes a very comfortable addition to his income. He is now engaged in writing a book to be called "Profit in Racing," in which he will outline his system for "beating the book."

Gambling on the races in England, Beresford declares, takes the place of the stock market in America as an outlet for national sporting propensities.

"In America," he says, 'you look at the tape to see the fluctuations of the prices of securities. In England you ask, 'Who won'? In America the stock market provides the same opportunities as the turf does in England, but the possibilities of those who play the market are infinitely greater than of those who play the ponies. I should say that 90 per cent of the adult male population in each country bets or gambles."

New Navy Chief Worried About Getting Seasick

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Curtis D. Wilbur, new secretary of the navy, is afraid of getting seasick on the job.

"That's the only thing that worries me as I look forward to taking up this new work," he confided to reporters. "Twice while I was at Annapolis I got deathly sick on cruises. It doesn't seem just right that the secretary of the navy should get that way."

Wilbur said his first seagoing experience was on a ferry boat on the Des Moines river.

Leap Year Candidate Asks Ideal Husband

LONDON, March 28.—Marjorie Gordon, one of London's "leading ladies," says she intends to exercise her leap year privilege. But at the same time she makes qualifications.

"Only ideal men are in danger," she states. "My man must be a combination of Nick Ratcliffe, Bernard Shaw, John Galsworthy, Algernon Blackwood, a center-forward of a first-rate football league team, and an income tax collector.

"He must have a sense of humor, but good looks are not essential. So you see, my choice is limited—with all due respect to the men."

Start Fight to Make Domestics' Life Happy

LONDON, March 28.—Plans to make domestic service more attractive in Great Britain have been prepared by the Women's Group of the Fabian society. They suggest:

Hotels for training and for daily workers to live in.

Minimum wage of 35 pounds per year for resident workers.

Maximum week of 48 hours for daily workers.

No dismissal without notice.

Private registry offices to be abolished; all engagements to be made through the labor exchanges.

French Political Crisis to Be Ended Tomorrow, Is Belief In Paris

By FRANK E. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, March 28.—There will be almost a complete reorganization of the French cabinet, according to indications this afternoon.

M. Maginot, minister of war in the old government, held a thirty mintes' conference with Premier Poincare, after which he issued the following brief statement to the press:

"Only M. Letrocquer and myself of the old ministry will be included in the new one."

Loucheur Asks Time

Premier Poincare offered the ministry of commerce and agriculture to Louis Loucheur, former minister of reparations, and the ministry of finance to former Minister of Finance Francois Marsal.

Loucheur said he wanted more time to consider the offer.

While the premier is meeting with obstacles, it is believed that the cabinet crisis will have been ended by tomorrow.

English Industry Raps Contract to Krupps

LONDON, March 28.—Something of a sensation in the British steel trade has been caused by the awarding of a contract to Krupps by the South African government. The contract amounts to 1300 tons of steel materials.

The high commissioner for South Africa, in London, said that tenders were invited from British and foreign firms, and Krupps made the lowest bids and therefore received the orders.

"British firms should have received this order," commented Sir Robert Hadfield, chairman of the Sheffield firm, Hadfields, Ltd. "From every point of view we are superior to Germany in these matters. I believe we give better value, so that British prices are cheaper in the long run.

"Moreover, it is quite a delusion that the Germans are the leaders in scientific progress. They are excellent followers, but Britain and America are well ahead of them."

DOCTORS PRESENT REPORTS AT LUNCH

Studies In Laboratory Are Explained at Meeting Of Physicians

Dr. J. E. Eckles and Dr. Henry R. Harrower presented case reports at the regular luncheon meeting of the Glendale Physicians' club held yesterday noon at the Egyptian Village, 133 North Brand boulevard.

Dr. Eckles showed some of the confusing clinical pictures arising in cardiac cases, where congestion of the lung and fever may at times suggest tuberculosis when none is present.

Dr. Harrower gave a presentation of the newer studies being made in his laboratory, in co-operation with practicing physicians, under the title, "Calcium Studies in Chronic Ulcerative Processes," showing that cases of long standing had recovered in a few weeks under the administration of parathyroid.

Dr. Harrower invited the local physicians to his laboratory to aid in carrying forward these studies.

S. P. HANDS OVER STATION TO CITY

Impressive Ceremony Marks Formal Transfer by Road's Officials

more transportation facilities."

The station was formally and officially accepted on behalf of the citizens of Glendale by Mayor Spencer Robinson. Mayor Robinson told of early conferences with railroad heads relative to the site of the proposed station, and pointed to the new structure as the result of the efforts of city officials. Constructive co-operation brought the new station to Glendale, he said, and in closing thanked the officials of the railroad company for their interest in Glendale.

"Transportation is the foundation of business," said F. S. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, and personal representative at the meeting of President Sproule. "As business grows, so must transportation, and as transportation gets better, so does business. The only commodity we have on our shelves to sell is transportation, and we intend to give our patrons the best.

"We present this station to you. It is yours. It is the wish of the Southern Pacific officials, as well as myself, that Glendale continues to grow, both in population and industries. We want to do more for Glendale, and at the rate the city is growing, it looks like we will soon have an opportunity to do more."

The value of the new station to neighboring cities was outlined by T. B. Allin, president of the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce; J. J. Coburn, of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, and George A. Green, a director of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce. Residents of these cities, the speakers said, rejoiced with Glendale in the opening of the new station, as it would mean a great convenience to them.

The only passenger train that will not stop at Glendale will be the Daylight Limited, Mr. McGinnis said. This train makes no stops between Los Angeles and San Francisco. During the ceremonies, limited trains which had been in the habit of rushing through Glendale, but stopped for the first time last night, were the Padre, the Lark, the Owl and the Sunset Limited.

Members of Band

Among the members of the Community band who presented the concert preceding the dedication ceremonies last night were: Raymond Crawford, director; Bert Aageson, G. B. Calvert, G. C. Calvert, A. C. Currie, R. M. Davenport, Paul Elliott, Lloyd Fryer, Roscoe Graham, W. S. Gregory, Harry D. Greenwalt, A. C. Holcomb, E. W. Kingsley, K. P. Ostrander, O. F. Painter, Douglas Riles, Francis Ricksecker, F. C. Stroner, F. A. Turney, O. W. Wright, George W. Whitney, G. I. McFarland, E. C. McFarland, Fred P. McNeight, Everett H. Gray, M. S. Moller, Harold Loving, Edgar Wolback, Robert McReynolds, James N. Grindel and L. E. Wilbur.

All the musicians are residents of Glendale, Director Crawford said last night. The band is sponsored by the Exchange club, and will probably give weekly concerts during the summer months. A. C. Holcomb is manager of the band.

OWNERS TO ASK COUNCIL EXTEND WIDENING PLAN

Additional Improvements on West Broadway Named In Petitions

Extension of the proposed widening of West Broadway from Pacific avenue to San Fernando road from 60 feet to 80 feet will be asked in petitions to be presented to the City Council within the next ten days, as the result of action taken at a meeting of the West Broadway Improvement association last night.

The City Council has already acted favorably on the proposal to widen West Broadway ten feet on each side from Central avenue to Pacific avenue and has indicated that it will approve the proposed extension if property owners desire. Petitions for the extension were placed in circulation today.

Lights Are Wanted

O. M. Newby, president of the association, said today the organization has as an objective the widening of the street to Victory boulevard and installation of an ornamental lighting system the entire length, which, it is believed, will cause a gradual transition from residence to business district.

"If the widening project is stopped now at Pacific avenue it will make it awkward when the ornamental lighting system is installed," said Newby. "The cost will be much greater per lot. The lighting system will have to be moved back ten feet on each side when the extension is finally made.

Owners Willing

"Property owners in the district affected have generally signified their desire to go ahead with the work at the present time. Some persons who have formerly objected to the extended project have now agreed that it is essential.

"Traffic will be heavy on West Broadway this year. We would make it a Broadway, not in name only, but in reality."

The proposed project provides for paving from curb to curb, making it an 80-foot boulevard.

Senator Says Mellon Holds Post Illegally

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon holds his office illegally and in direct violation of a federal statute, Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, charged in the Senate.

McKellar cited a federal statute passed in 1789, prohibiting any man from holding the post of secretary of the treasury who has any interest in any business enterprise or is engaged in trade or commerce. The penalty for violation of this law is a fine of $3000 and expulsion from office, McKellar said.

Border to Be Cleaned Up
Probes and Politicians
Builders, Please Get Busy
Read the Ads Today

By Gil A. Cowan

Word comes from Mexico that the border towns in Lower California are to be "cleaned up." It is hinted that no Americans will be allowed to drink at the Mexicali or Tia Juana bars—at least, not to the point of drunkenness. That is good. For as long as a man is sober, he knows where his money goes. And he knows what he does.

Mexico cannot do otherwise than to stop the economic waste of American dollars and the perversion of their moral standards in the squalid little cities on the line. At the same time, Americans should lend a helping hand to the countrymen who do try to conform to American standards.

Yes, the courts might banish from the country those men who traffic in drugs, white slaves and booze across the border.

Day after day the wires are choked with the "Senate probe." Of course, people like to read of official scandal, but enough is enough. Especially when it gets nowhere. It is something like investigation made of army graft.

About the time a little petty thievery was discovered in some department the commanding officer said, "Yes, it is true that such and such is the case, but why waste time investigating this $15,000 rake-off when 'so and so' got $50,000?"

Naturally enough, it steered the investigation elsewhere, until it seemed as though the real graft lay in the golden pot at the end of the rainbow. That is where the senate will likely wind up unless it is stopped and the rainboy's end is altogether too far away.

What is more necessary for the people of these United States, if you will pardon a young man's opinion, is for each and every one to take more interest in civic and political affairs. Perhaps the politicians will not like this—we know some of them do not like what we write, and others think we amount to so little that "they should worry"—but a demand on the part of the public for better officeholders may change the "bosses'" minds.

Sometimes we wonder "Why is a political boss?" Perhaps it pays, as Al Jennings, former bandit, made out before the senate yesterday.

Certainly, a politician shoud be paid for his troube. But where does this money come from? Surely not out of thin air. Every one has a guess, but the answer is the same. It must come from those who expect to profit by graft and corruption and political influence.

That's all there is to it. Simple as the alphabet. Think it over.

At any rate, these political spasms, partisan as they may be, throw as much mud on all officeholders who are honest as on those who are dishonest. It is to be hoped that some of them get whitewashed before next November.

Take President Coolidge, for instance. He is a hapless victim of vicious party attack. Poor man, risen in the ranks through luck, only to be thrown headlong into a history-making maelstrom. May he courageously do his duty and see the guilty punished.

The writer believes Coolidge is all right. So is Johnson. It is the people who get behind them that one must question.

Glendale builders need get busy the few remaining days of this month and run the March total over the million mark. It will take a little effort to do so, but good days are ahead—the weather will be best for building this spring. Let's go!

And the real estate men want to get out of their offices after prospects now that the rainy season is fast coming to a close. Take the air and get the ozone.

This idea of droning around may be all right some places, but not in Glendale.

Friday is a large day for the merchants advertising in The Glendale Evening News. We would much rather have you read the special prices for Saturday than bother with further comment.

You know it is the advertiser who is the real business builder in Glendale, not the leech who depends on the trade developed by his next-door neighbor.

What more need be said?

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By ALICE LANGELIER
For International News Service

PARIS, March 27.—All Paris has been celebrating the anniversary of the famous "Lady of the Camelias." One hundred years ago little Alphonsine Plessis, whom Alexander Dumas, fils, immortalized under the name of Marguerite Gautier, was born in a small French village.

Marie Duplessis, as she was known to Parisians in the forties of the last century, was the daughter of a modest dry goods merchant and an inveterate drunkard, whose love for her was much less than that for his "flowing bowl." She was forced to beg her bread along country roads, and later became servant, laundress and finally modiste. At 15 she was the idol of many men, and at 17 her charm and beauty made her the most talked-of courtisane of Europe, dragging all men to her feet, ruining some, adored by others, celebrated by the poets, and loved by the artists, queen of all the Parisian fetes.

But her reign was a short one, for she died at the age of 23. The Boulevard was her home, with its Cafe Anglais, Cafe de Paris, Torconi's and other famous establishments. Her actual residence was at No. 15 Boulevard de la Madeleine, where she occupied the first-floor apartment fitted up with celebrated sumptuousness. It was here she died in the midst of her luxury, already half forgotten by her friends, for her illness had kept her out of the whirl for some time. Her coffin was piled high with the camelias she loved, but only two people followed it to the little grave in the old Montmartre cemetery.

Too much mother-love, the analysis of its destructive influence and disastrous results—this is the subject of "Genitrix," Francois Mauriac's latest novel.

Like Balzac, the idea of this popular young writer is to conceive a character and develop it to the very limit. The mother of Fernand Cazenave is treated very much like the Pere Goriot, with the difference that the paternal passion, less animal and therefore less imperious, has but reduced itself to martyrdom, while the ferocious tenderness of the other has led it to a criminal victory which destroys itself in the end.

Felicite Cazenave, whom the death of her husband and that of another child had left indifferent, has but one passion, her son Fernand, and one enemy, the young wife Mathilde, who foresees on her wedding journey what her life is to be.

"You were right," Fernand writes from Biarritz to his mother one week after the ceremony. "Only a mother can understand the man I am. All other women are outsiders, believing they love while they are only thinking of themselves . . . Mathilde cares little about my health, rising during the night while I am asleep to open the window and setting herself in train compartments where there are frightful draughts of air. She continually pokes fun at the habits of our family, declaring it disgusting not to wash oneself at night, as if it were of any use since one must begin again all over in the morning."

The most beautiful pages are those where the young wife dies. Certainly Felicite did not kill her, but with almost a criminal joy she let her expire without even watching at the bedside.

"Because she was entirely alone in the world," writes Mauriac, "Mathilde did not know she was at the extreme border of life. If she had been loved she would have been obliged to tear herself away from the world. But she had nothing to leave, never having known any great attachment. No one was there to weep as her spirit slipped away. She experienced the pleasant death of those who are not loved."

But if the mother had been able to triumph over the living, she soon found herself powerless before Mathilde's phantom. The regret and the remorse for never having defended his wife against his mother has changed the character of the docile Fernand. He becomes the prey of his dreams and the old mother, finally conquered, dies of chagrin. Felicite dies because she no longer possesses her son. And this desire for spiritual domination, suggests Mauriac, is it not identical at bottom with the passion which consumes two young beings?

Poems That Live

A SUNDAY HYMN

Lord of all being, throned afar,
Thy glory flames from sun and star;
Centre and soul of every sphere,
Yet to each loving heart how near!

Sun of our life, thy quickening ray
Sheds on our path the glow of day;
Star of our hope, thy softened light
Cheers the long watches of the night.

Our midnight is thy smile withdrawn;
Our noontide is thy gracious dawn;
Our rainbow arch, thy mercy's sign;
All, save the clouds of sin, are thine.

Lord of all life, below, above,
Whose light is truth, whose warmth is love;
Before thy ever-blazing throne,
We ask no lustre of our own.

Grant us thy truth to make us free,
And kindling hearts that burn for thee,
Till all thy living altars claim
One holy light, one heavenly flame.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

IDENTITY

Somewhere—in desolate wind-swept space—
In Twilight-land—in no-man's land—
Two hurrying shapes met face to face,
And bade each other stand.

"And who are you?" cried one a-gape,
Shuddering in the gloaming light.
"I know not," said the second Shape,
"I only died last night."

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Dinner Stories

The movies look to all sorts of sources for their material and there have been diggings in many strange fields, recites the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph. One talented young writer thought of trying out mythology. So he went to his general manager with the story of Diana.

The general manager viewed with some interest the illustration presented.

"Who is she?"

"Diana, goddess of the chase."

"Well, she's a pretty fair looker, but we ain't making any more chase pictures."

A lecturer gave a learned and interesting address before a woman's club on "The Decadence of Pure English," says the Houston (Texas) Post.

At the close of the talk an overdressed woman approached him and said.

"I did enjoy your talk ever and ever so much, and I agree with you that the English language is decading something awful. Hardly no one talks proper nowadays, and goodness only knows what the next generation will talk like if nothing ain't done about it."

10 Years Ago Today

Monday night, March 23, 1914, will go down in the annals of ecclesiastic history as one never to be forgotten, for on that date St. Mark's mission of Glendale became St. Mark's Episcopal parish of Glendale.

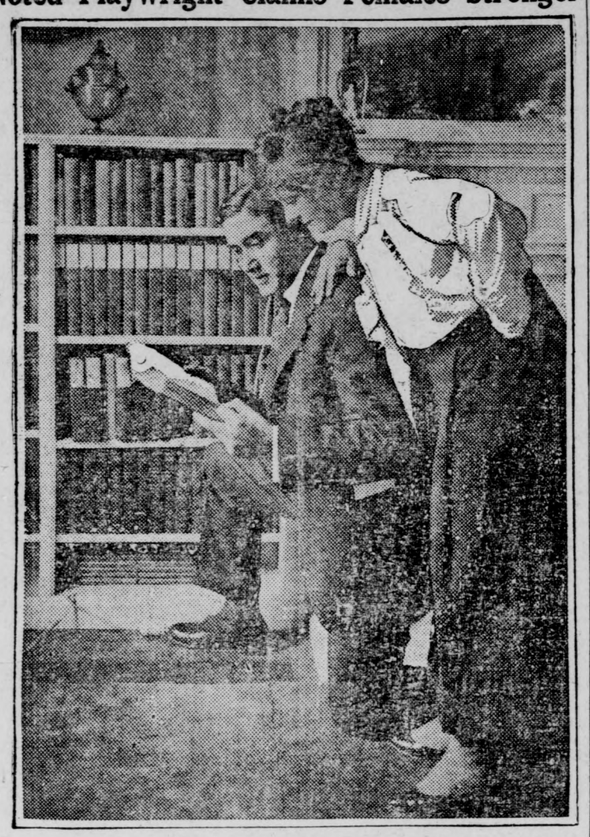
MEN, NOT WOMEN, WEAKER SEX

Noted Playwright Claims Females Stronger



Margaret Mayo and Edgar Selwyn, from whom she was divorced a few days ago after eighteen years of wedded life.

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—Men, not women, are the weaker sex.

This is the contention of Margaret Mayo, noted author, playwright and globe-trotter.

A few days ago the country chuckled over Miss Mayo's terse statement that it is foolish for a man to give a woman his seat in a street car or doff his hat to her.

Defending the statement now, she says: "I think it is perfectly ridiculous for a man to be sure to put his coat on, for instance, when he goes to dine where ladies are present—especially if the weather is warm. Why not dine in his shirt sleeves? Is there anything objectionable to shirt sleeves?

"And I should be ashamed to take a seat in a street car or any other place, in fact, from a poor, tired man. I'd much rather get up and give him mine. For I have learned from experience that man is the weaker animal, that he tires far, far more easily.

"Why have I worked days and nights upon stretch without letup, when men so engaged in the same task have fallen a prey to exhaustion? No, no; let the young, healthy girl give up her seat to the big, tired working man and have done with hypocrisy."

An inkling of why Margaret Mayo's romance went on the rocks is given by statement of her views on marriage. She was divorced from Edgar Selwyn, play producer, after eighteen years of apparently happy married life.

Marriage is being taken too seriously, she says. It will be remembered that Margaret Mayo is the author of the very successful play, "Twin Beds."

"Why should a man marry a woman, or a woman marry a man, with the idea that the thing should last forever?

"It's incomprehensible to me. A man or a woman should enter the married state with the determination and the mutual understanding that wedlock should remain locked so long as they are happy together, and no longer."

"But what about children? Is not the marriage bond the sole protection of children?" she was asked.

"The child question will take care of itself. The women will see to that if she has the true maternal instinct, and if she has not, the man will possess it. And the children should go to the one who loves them the most, who has the maternal instinct to the greatest degree.

"In case that instinct of protection of the children shouldn't exist in either parent at separation time, then it is better that the state should care for hem. Better that than to have them perpetually upset mentally over the wrangles of their parents who may be trying to live happily together."

An old negro who made his living, as he said, "by takin' in whitewashin', floor cleanin' an' perticular jobs," met one of his customers shortly after the first of the year.

"How are you this morning, Uncle Dave?" asked the white man.

"Well, sah, I'm des dat good dat I'm gwine to live fer anuder year," was the reply.

"How can you be so certain of that?"

"Hits dis 'er way. I allurs notices dat when I lives twel New Year's I allus lives anuder year," was the triumphant response.

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes; it's true—the world progresses.

All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint Ease: They call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distroted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

Druggists everywhere report a big demand.—Advertisement.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BETTY'S COMB

"Come, Bobby! Come, Betty!" called Mrs. Ringtail, the raccoon mother, one morning. "It is time you started for school!"

"All right, mother!" answered Bobby. In his cute little paws, which were almost like hands, he caught up his books and was dashing out of the door, when his mother said:

"Oh, Bobby! You aren't going to school without combing your hair, are you?"

"No'm!" mumbled Bobby. Quickly he ran one paw through his short hair, making it stand up even more than it had been doing, and then, pulling on his cap, away rushed the little raccoon chap.

"Oh, but Bobby! Your hair isn't half combed!" his mother cried.

"My cap will slick it down by the time I get to school!" called back Bobby.

Mrs. Ringtail sighed and then she said: "Come, Betty, let me see if your hair is all right before you go to school."

"My hair is good enough, mother," said Betty. "If Bobby doesn't have to comb his hair I'm not going to comb mine! It's all right!"

"Oh, but it isn't!" cried Mrs. Ringtail, as she saw the tangle of Betty's hair. "Give me your comb, my dear, and I'll help you smooth your hair so you will look neat going to school."

"Oh, don't bother, please!" begged Betty. "I'm in a hurry. Never mind my comb—my hair is all right."

"No, indeed, it isn't!" said her mother. "It is all snarls and tangles. You must use your comb, Betty!" For the little raccoon girl was trying to do as her brother had done—run her paws through her hair, which was longer than Bobby's.

Mrs. Ringtail took Betty's comb and tried to make her little girl's hair look more tidy. But Betty had not combed her locks out the night before, and there were more snarls and tangles in them than her mother could count.

"Ouch! Oh, how you pull! Oh, let it alone!" cried Betty, with tears in her eyes.

"No, I must comb your hair. And, after this, don't let it get so tangled!" said Mrs. Ringtail.

She was combing away, hurrying all she could so Betty wouldn't be late for school. But the tangles and snarls seemed to get worse than ever, and Betty was crying and Mrs. Ringtail was having a perfectly dreadful time when, all of a sudden, the telephone rang and Uncle Wiggily came along at the same time.

"Hello! Hello!" called Mrs. Ringtail into the telephone. "Oh, it's you, is it, Mrs. Wibblewobble? Yes, I'll be over in a few minutes as soon as I have combed the tangies out of Betty's hair. It's in a terrible state. Oh, yes, I'll hurry as much as I can. Good-by!"

"Mrs. Wibblewobble is ill and wants me to come over and see her," said Mrs. Ringtail to Uncle Wiggily, who had stopped in on his way to seek an adventure. "But I must comb Betty's hair—no, indeed, my dear! You can't run off to school that way!" cried Mrs. Ringtail, for Betty was trying to slip out of the door, slyly like.

"Oh, dear!" sighed the little raccoon girl.

"Let me help," offered Uncle Wiggily. "I'll finish combing Betty's hair for her, and you hurry over to Mrs. Wibblewobbles, if you please, Mrs. Twisty-tail. I'll see that Betty gets to school!"

So the raccoon lady put on her bonnet and shawl and hurried over to the duck lady's house. Uncle Wiggily took Betty's comb and began. But no sooner had he begun to draw it through the little raccoon girl's tangled locks than Betty cried:

"Ouch! Oh, dear! How you pull!"

"It can't be helped," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll be as gentle as I can, but I must make your hair smooth."

"I wish I had short hair like Bobby!" cried Betty, with tears in her eyes. "Oh! Ouch! How it pulls!"

"Pulls! Pulls! I'm going to do some pulling!" suddenly cried a harsh voice, and into the house popped the Fuzzy Fox, with his big dusting brush of a tail. "I'm going to pull your ears!" he cried to Uncle Wiggily. "That's what I'm going to pull!"

The rabbit gentleman stood holding Betty's comb, wondering how he could get away from the fox, when, all of a sudden, Betty said:

"Look at the tail of the Fox, Uncle Wiggily; It's all full of snarls and tangles! His tail needs combing!"

"So it does!" cried the rabbit gentleman. "I must comb your tail, Mr. Fox, before I can let you touch my ears!"

With that Uncle Wiggily drew Betty's comb through the tail of the Fox. And the Fox had so many snarls and tangles in his tail and the comb pulled them so hard that the Fox jumped up, turned a somersault and cried:

"Wouch! Wow! Oh, this is too much for me! I don't want my tail combed!" And away he ran without waiting for any more snarls to be taken out.

Wow! I don't want my tail combed!"

Then Uncle Wiggily laughed and Betty laughed. And she was thinking so much about how funny the Fox acted that she didn't mind when Uncle Wiggily finished combing out her tangles. And when her hair was all smooth, away to school she ran, getting there just in time.

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped along, smiling to himself and twinkling his pink nose as he thought of how the Fox had howled. And after that Betty never let her hair get tangled, so it was easier to comb.

Now, if the cabbage doesn't try to stand on its head and read the picture book upside down, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the soap.

CONFESSIONS OF A BABY
My Eats

Seven months old, mammas! Fy, I'm getting along in months. I am making strenuous efforts to sit unsupported now, but my Cherie—that means my Darling, and my Darling is my Mamma—doesn't give me much encouragement about this sitting-up-alone business. But I'm going to insist upon it pretty soon. Then I think she will let me, because she will know that if I do insist upon it, my spine muscles are strong enough to hold me up and I won't have curvature. Of course, if I weren't such a healthy lad, if I had rickets or scurvy or were undernourished, as too many of my colleagues are, there would be more danger in my sitting unsupported.

But I don't have these things; you know why, Mammas. I have wonderful milk; my Mamma supplies it and she makes it especially to order for me. (Doctor has an article on the diet for nursing mammas which you may have by sending a s. a. s. e. to her through this paper.)

Then, besides my milk, I am having other things to eat now. I told you about the taste of cereal I got some time ago. Mamma began when I was six months old to give me one-half level teaspoon of strained cereal at my 10 and later at my 6 o'clock feedings, before my nursing. I like it very much, and now I am getting two level teaspoonfuls at a time—quite a little meal, you see.

I got to taking this amount very slowly—one-half level teaspoon increase about every other day. If it had upset me in any way, Mamma would have gone back to a smaller amount and increased it less rapidly. My cereal is any cereal my family have, and it is cooked very thoroughly—two or three hours in a double boiler. It is strained and I take it from a spoon, just like a regular man. I don't have anything on it, though. Not now. Later, I will have some milk on it. This is teaching me to like solid foods.

At my two o'clock feedings I have a regular banquet. First, I have a piece of dry toast that I nibble on. It is fine whole-wheat bread, at least a day old, and is toasted in the oven so that it is dried thoroughly. I don't get very much of it; only the little bit that my saliva softens is nibbled off, but my strenuous efforts to get that amount develops my jaws and teeth.

Another thing I am getting at my two o'clock feeding is vegetable or beef juice. Mamma gives me the juice from cooked spinach, or carrots, or tomatoes or peas, or almost any vegetable she cooks, but I have spinach juice two or three times a week. There is no fat on my vegetable or beef juice because fat might upset me. Mamma began at my seventh month to give me a teaspoonful diluted with water, and then she increased it a teaspoonful every other day until now I get two tablespoons. Fine first course. Sometimes I have a little of my nice toast crumbled in this.

Do you know why I'm getting some extra foods now, mammas? One of the reasons is because milk of any kind, even my precious Mamma's milk, does not have very much iron in it. We babies are born with some iron stored away in our livers, enough to last us about six months or so; but after that we should have other foods than milk to supply iron. Another reason is that we get more vitamins and other mineral elements in the extra foods. Still another reason is that it is easier to teach us to like any new foods when we begin early.

But you must not forget, Mammas, that any new food must begin in very small amounts, and increased very gradually, so that our digestive powers will develop gradually and will not be overtaxed. I think I will give you the schedule for feeding us at the seventh month as Doctor has it in her book "Diet for Children." But remember, Mammas, if your baby has been having digestive disturbances, you should not try to select his diet yourself, but should see a baby specialist in the baby welfare stations or in private practice. Will you do that?

SEVENTH MONTH FEEDING SCHEDULE

6 A. M.—Nursing or bottle.
9 A. M. Orange juice.
10 A. M. Breast or bottle, preceded by standard cereal, 3 to 4 level tablespoonfuls.
2 P. M.—Nursing or bottle. Vegetable or beef juice minus all fat. Begin with one teaspoonful diluted. Increase 1 teaspoonful every other day to 2 tablespoonfuls.
Piece of dry toast to nibble on before nursing or bottle. Can put a little in the broth also.
6 P. M.—Cereal, same amount as 10 A. M., followed by nursing or bottle.
10 P. M.—Nursing or bottle.
Au revoir, Mamma dears,
A. SOCKUMS.

HOMES OF NATION MUST BE FIRST

Better Homes Drive Started By Communities

MISS GRACE ABBOTT MRS. THOMAS G. WINTER

That the homes of a nation are and must continue to be a thing of greatest importance to the women of that nation is maintained by some of the best-known women of the United States, who are devoting their time and energies to home improvement, under the auspices of Better Homes in America.

Among the national leaders on the board of directors of this organization is Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau. Miss Abbott points out the urgency of better homes in America from the standpoint of the children of the country. Another earnest advocate of home betterment is Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and a member of the advisory council of Better Homes in America.

The Better Homes in America movement grew out of a speech of the late President Harding at Akron, Ohio, in 1921, who declared that "the soundness of our social system and stability of our country are greatly enhanced by the development of love for a home, and the creation of a home that can be loved." The organization so proved its educational value for the home-makers and prospective home-makers of the country that it was recently incorporated as a national educational institution, with Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, as president, and James Ford, national housing expert, as executive director.

Communities throughout the United States are already being mobilized for Better Homes demonstrations, which will take place during Better Homes week, from May 11 to May 18. In former years these demonstrations have been held in communities all the way from the Gulf Stream to beyond the Arctic Circle; there were approximately 1000 such demonstrations in 1923 alone. The number will probably be materially increased this year, as the educational value of the demonstrations along home-making lines has now been thoroughly established. President Coolidge, who heads the advisory council of Better Homes in America, recently issued an indorsement of the movement, urging co-operation in Better Homes demonstrations upon communities throughout the nation.

Headquarters are at 1653 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

I have often wondered why women allow themselves to be disfigured with hair growing on the face when it is so easy to get rid of this affliction. While the electric needle treatment is the only permanent method yet discovered, still it is possible to keep down the thickest growth of superfluous hairs with a pair of tweezers procurable for ten (or 25) cents at any drug store. When the hairs grow in again she is no worse off than she was before and she has had one or two months of freedom from this ugly nuisance. Besides, all she has to do is to pull them out again, they will not grow in any thicker as the result of this occasional weeding.

First wipe over the skin with a little peroxide of hydrogen diluted with water. This is to make the skin antiseptic so that no germ can get down into the open hair follicles and breed. Have the tweezers antiseptic, pull out each hair with a quick firm jerk, pulling it in the direction that it is growing. Not only the hair but a good deal of the surrounding down will come out.

When you have finished wipe over the skin with full strength peroxide of hydrogen. This does several valuable things. It closes up the pores through which the hairs have been growing, it makes the skin once more antiseptic, and it bleaches the remaining fuzz composed of thousand of tiny hairs too tiny to pull out. It discourages the growth of more hair and particularly it discourages the growth of any other tiny hair that may be living inside the follicle from which a hair has just been pulled.

If you keep up this treatment faithfully I do not think you need ever spend money on electric treatments. However, if you have a hairy mole see your doctor before you try a home cure. Moles are such dangerous things to play with that you should never do anything to them without seeing a physician.

L. S.:—A general run down condition of your scalp would account for your hair breaking off and splitting. Possibly your scalp is not secreting enough oil to sustain the health of the hair.

Separate your hair into small sections and braid each loosely; rough these braids out so all the loose ends appear and trim off all ends. Repeat this process every week until you have eliminated all bad ends, and then do the work every month. Massage the scalp every day to improve its circulation and use a good hair tonic several times each week. If your scalp is very dry, massage a little bit of olive oil into it whenever necessary.

This Trouble can be Treated at Home.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

MRS. P. E. LAMB

Do you think you are overworked? Mrs. Porter Emerson Lamb, of San Francisco, Cal., is a just judge—a presiding justice of the peace—a most capable housewife, and the mother of six happy, healthy children.

This seems to be the answer to the oft voiced query: Can a woman be a successful wife and mother and also follow a career?

Mrs. R. E. Barrett, manager of Warrenton, Ore., went to Washington, D. C., recently to ask the aid of congress in deepening the river that runs through her town to facilitate shipping. Although Warrenton has only 1,100 inhabitants, it has paved streets, the schools are electrically heated and are equipped with electrically heated chairs for drying the clothes of the children when they come in wet weather. Mrs. Barrett is the only woman manager of a town in the United States.

MRS. BARRETT

"Experience has taught me that women pay more attention to their credit than men," says Mrs. W. E. Francis, "credit man" in a Cleveland, O., men's specialty shop. "Before I came here to work I handled credits in a woman's shop. I learned about women there, and since coming here I found that often I was dealing with the husbands of my former customers. As a staller the average man waxes eloquent, but the woman starts to stutter and doesn't know what to say. It takes the women and wives to look out for the family credit."

Generous readers have sent me the following splendid recipes to publish for other women to enjoy:

Mrs. M.: "I have just discovered a simple and good way to make Bran Cookies. They are delicious and ought to make a healthful cookie for the kiddies: Three cups of bran, one-half cup of flour, one-half cup of brown sugar, one level teaspoon of soda, one-fourth teaspoon each of ground cinnamon and nutmeg, one-half cup of honey, one-half cup of milk (or more if necessary, to make drop-dough) and one-half cup of shortening. Method: Mix the dry ingredients with the bran then add the honey, the milk, and the heated shortening. (Add a generous sprinkling of shredded cocoanut for extra delicacy. Walnut meats would also be a good addition). Drop this batter by teaspoonfuls onto a greased and floured baking sheet, allowing sufficient space for each cookie to spread. Bake for fifteen minutes in a medium oven (375 degrees Fehrenheit if you use an oven themometer).

..... Mrs. W. M.: "Scotch Oatmeal Cookies: One cup of shortening, one cup of sugar, one cup of raisins, one cup of nut-meats, two cups of uncooked oatmeal, two cups of flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoon of salt, one-half cup of sweet milk, two whole eggs and two extra egg-yolks. Cream shortening, beat in the sugar, the raisins, nuts and oatmeal. Beat the eggs and add the milk to them; then stir this liquid into the first mixture alternately with the flour, to which the soda and salt have been added. Drop this batter on a greased pan and bake about ten minutes in a quick oven. They do not need flavoring and are better the second day. I am contributing this recipe in the hope that some of your Scotch reader friends will send in recipes for 'Curren Dumpling', 'Scotch Haggis' and also for chocolate doughnuts (not chocolate covered doughnuts). I wanted these three recipes for a long time but cannot find them anywhere."

A Friend: "Pineapple Fluff: Drain the sirup from a can of pineapple You will need one cup of it. Put this amount of pineapple-sirup in a double boiler with one cup of water, the juice of one-half lemon, one-half cup of granulated sugar, and two level tablespoons of cornstarch powder, and cook till clear. Now remove it from the range and folk into it the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and also the beaten yolks, add to it one cup of the canned pineapple cut in small pieces. Turn all into a buttered dish and bake for twenty minutes in a medium oven. Serve with whipped cream."

COACH SELECTS 5 BEST ATHLETES

Meredith, Ray, Kohlemainen, Sheppard, Thorpe Named By L. Robertson

By GEORGE T. HOOK
For International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—"Ted" Meredith, "Joie" Ray, "Mel" Sheppard, "Jim" Thorpe and Hannes Kohlemainen are the five greatest athletes that Lawson Robertson, coach of the American Olympic team, ever knew. So he declared the other day; and, being an authority who brought to Penn the intercollegiate indoor title two years in succession and who since 1902 has had his finger on the so-called pulse of track affairs, he has his reasons for putting his stardom stamp on the quintet named and for placing them on pedestals in his private Hall of Athletic Fame.

It's rather peculiar, and Robertson commented upon it, that three of the stars were bricklayers.

"Meredith learned his trade at the Williamson Trade School," the Red and Blue coach smilingly declared; Kohlemainen worked for seven years at bricklaying and Joie Ray put in some time laying bricks. Figure it out for yourself if there is something in bricklaying that makes a man a great athlete."

Robertson picked the peerless "Ted" first, because he excelled perhaps every man who ever wore a spiked shoe and second, because he is a conspicuous exemple of the model athlete—a model for the youth of today who wants to become an athlete.

Small But Good

"There was a boy who apparently was small, yet so well was he built, with a body that gave him great power and legs that held wonderful speed, that he excelled perhaps any man who ever wore track shoes. That is what the athlete today should strive for—a body that is big and robust and that will carry him through when his legs begin to sag and show the ravages of time," Coach Robertson said.

Merewith's salient achievements include establishment of world's records for the 440 yards, the half mile and the 800 meters.

Ray, in the Olympic coach's estimation, is the perfect running machine.

"That's why I pick him," Robertson declared. "Whenever you watch Ray run—smooth, no jerking, no leaping, such a perfect running stride all the time—you begin to think of the poetry of motion. Joie Ray has won perfection in running—perfection in style and judgment. He uses wonderful headwork.

Was Never Beaten

"I can't leave out 'Mel' Sheppard," Robertson continued. "He is now coach of the Millrose A. A. and won the national championships and was a great middle-distance runner. Sheppard's great value, and the reason for my choice lay in the fact that he was a wonderful competitive athlete. If you look over his records you'll find that he was not so fast, but nobody ever beat him. He could lick any of 'em, and he did whenever he got a chance."

"Jim" Thorpe, he said, will be classed as one of the greatest athletes we have ever produced because of his baseball and football ability and no mean ability in field and track sports.

In Kohlemainen, Robertson sees in many respects the greatest distance runner that ever lived. He won three world's records at Stockholm in the 1912 Olympics and holds all American records from three to ten miles.

"Remember how he won the Marathon in 1912 in Sweden," the Olympic coach enthused, "and came back eight years later at Antwerp and repeated his triumph? He's entered from Finland this year at Paris, and if he wins (he has a good chance, by the way) he will have accomplished a feat never before recorded and which may never be equalled."

Hoff Looks Good

According to reports he has received, Robertson said, the outstanding Olympic athlete at this year's meet in Paris may be Hoff, a Norwegian, now rated Europe's greatest athlete.

The coach of the Yankee Olympic team began his track career under the colors of the now extinct Knickerbocker A. C. back in 1902. Later he joined the Irish-American A. C., attained fame as a competitive athlete and became coach of the club. His tutoring ability gained recognition, and he did his stuff at New York University and Brooklyn College, coming to the University of Pennsylvania eight years ago. He reached the pinnacle of his coaching career when he was chosen head mentor of the team that will represent the United States at the Paris Olympics.

Got Divorce, Demands Alimony, May Get It

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—It is a woman's prerogative to change her mind, but the law is not always allowed that privilege, so Judge Summerfield today had under advisement the plea of Mrs. Louise Schneider that her husband pay her alimony. She is suing Pete Schneider, Vernon club baseball player, for divorce. No alimony was asked, but after Judge Summerfield granted the decree she asked that alimony be granted.

BRUINS TO MEET ILLINOIS SQUAD

East and West Contest Stirs Interest In Athletic Circles of U. S.

After scoring its first track victory of the season over the University of Southern California, the University of California varsity track squad is definitely pointed toward the important intercollegiate meet with the University of Illinois, which is scheduled to be held on the Berkeley oval on April 19.

In the meet with U. S. C., the followers of the game were able to get a definite idea of just what can be expected of the Blue and Gold tracksters. Although the meet was held in a drizzling rain and on a muddy, slippery track, some great things may be expected of Coach Walter Christie's proteges.

Barber Is Surprise

One of the biggest surprises of the day was the work of a sprinter named Phil Barber. The general consensus of opinion has been that the California team lacks a fast man in the sprints. Barber, a sophomore, on a slippery track, negotiated the 100-yard dash in 9 9-10 seconds. Three watches agreed on this time.

In the furlong Barber won by three yards over Martz of U. S. C., who was given the edge before the meet. The time announced was 22 4-10 seconds. The showing of Barber puts a different aspect upon the outcome of the track results, which looked dubious for the Blue and Gold team.

Captain Bill Neufeld came through with just what was expected of him and a little more. He was figured to bring in ten points and he won high point honors by amassing thirteen tallies to his credit. He won the discus with a throw of 137 feet 4 inches and the javelin event with 164 feet 9 inches. He also placed second in the shotput with 45 feet 8¾ inches, just ⅝ of an inch behind the U. S. C. man.

Chase won the 880 in 2:01 3-10, nosing out the U. S. C. man who was favored for this event.

Coach Christie has good reason to be satisfied with the showing that his men presented in the first meet of the season and if the rain holds off he will have his men in prime condition for the meet with the Illinois tracksters.

Illinois Dangerous

In doping the meet little definite information is at hand. Illinois has a well balanced team, as well as a number of individual men who promise to give the Bruin runners a hard fight.

The meet will be an intersectional affair and this issue is one which always arouses much enthusiasm on the part of the spectators as well as the teams.

On April 5 the University of California will meet the Olympic club, which has many former California stars on its squad. This meet will furnish a more definite estimate as to the merits of the Blue and Gold.

The track has remained in good shape, although recent rains have made good times during practice impossible. Coach Christie has finally settled upon a definite squad, which he is putting through the paces daily.

Oxy Frosh, Varsity In Two Track Meets

The Oxy frosh are holding a dual track meet with Hollywood High school this afternoon on Patterson field at the same time the varsity are entertaining S. B. U. C. The varsity and frosh events are to be run off simultaneously. This is the first time that two separate meets have ever been staged at the same time by Occidental.

The track meet with the Grizzlies was scheduled for Saturday, but by mutual agreement the date was changed in order that the teams might witness the U. S. C. vs. Stanford meet tomorrow in the Coliseum.

Diamond Creek Dam Injunction, Threat

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 28.—Charging that James B. Girand has begun work on the Diamond creek dam site on the Colorado river without authority from the Federal Power Board, government attorneys are seeking an injunction in the federal court to stop the work. Girand is working under a state permit issued by the water commissioner. His application for a federal permit was deferred by the Federal Power Board last fall, the government taking the position that the Colorado river compact should first be ratified before development of the Colorado river is started.

The Girand project is for the development of power to be used in the copper mines of the state. The estimated cost of the dam is $9,000,000 and of the entire project, $36,000,000.

OLYMPIC DEFEAT IN TENNIS LOOMS

Net Stars Who Kept America In Front Rank Drop Out of Running

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, March 28.—Not a single member of the American team that collaborated in the successful defense of the Davis cup last fall is likely to represent this country in the Olympic tennis at Paris, it was indicated in semi-official circles today. This fact was admitted following the statement attributed to Dick Williams, team captain, who was quoted as saying he would be unable to arrange his affairs so that he could take part in the international games.

William M. Johnston, No. 2 in the national ranking list, declared himself out months ago. William T. Tilden, II, greatest of all stars, and Vincent Richards, the boy with a man's game, are barred by the player-writer rule, although it is not altogether certain that Richards will not waive his literary efforts for the occasion.

Sees U. S. Defeat

If he does not, the United States might just as well reconcile itself in advance to a defeat in the Olympic tennis at St. Cloud. It would not have the chance of a brogan in a ballroom.

Tilden, Johnston, Williams and Richards constitute the first four in the national ranking list. The next eight, named in order, are Francis T. Hunter, Howard O. Kinsey, Carl Fischer, B. I. C. Norton, Harvey Snodgrass, Robert Kinsey, Manuel Alonzo and Wallace F. Johnson. Norton and Alonzo are foreign residents and consequently are eliminated; Fischer and Snodgrass lack the necessary experience and Johnson has known better days.

The best combination under the circumstances would be Hunter and Howard Kinsey in the singles and the Kinsey brothers in the doubles, with Fischer as alternate.

Richards Is Key

It could hardly hope to beat Australia with their Norman Brooks and Gerald Patterson. Neither would it figure to out-step France, with its Cochet, Borotea and Suzanne, of the temperament. England and Japan also will muster more likely combinations.

The fact of the matter is that no nation can lose such men as Tilden, Johnston and Williams and hope to show at its best. Richards is the key to better prospects. Without him the United States will do well to finish in the money.

TIGER ATHLETES TO INVADE EAST

Pipal's Squad Will Compete In Penn Relay Meet For Tract Honors

The athletic committee of Occidental college have officially announced that the Tiger varsity track team will go east and take part in the Penn State relay carnival to be held April 25 and 26. The final decision in the choice between Penn and Drake rested in the fact that the hottest competition will be afforded in the Penn meet.

Coach Pipal and his men are after big game and are anxious to win national fame on the cinder path. The pick of the Occidental athletes will make the trip following the combined all-southern conference meet with Stanford on April 12 at Palo Alto. A special invitation has been extended to Iron Man Cliff Argue, urging him to run in the international 100-yard dash event against Lidell, the famous sprint demon from the Edinburgh university of Scotland, and other leading sprint flashes. Argue has made 9 4-5 in the century already this season. His time is the fastest recorded on the coast for the year.

Stop at Kansas City

The Tiger team is scheduled to leave April 15 and will stop off at Kansas City for the Kansas university relay carnival, April 19, and enter the century, middle distance events and the pole vault, with a possible entry in the relay. Then the team will go on to Pennsylvania for the big international relay carnival, April 25 and 26.

Oxy is counting on winning several points in both meets. The four-man one-mile relay team, the pride of the Tiger campus, will be composed of Spangler, Powers, Buckman and Ellsworth. This fast combination has clipped off 3 minutes, 22 seconds already, which is good enough to win most relays. Argue, Buckman and Nash will enter the sprints; Spangler, Powers, Ellsworth in the middle distances, and Nick Carter in the mile and 880. Roy Goodenough will fly the orange and black colors in the pole vault. His performance of 12 feet, 5¾ inches in the Pomona meet has attracted much comment.

WILL ATTEND MEET

Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, plans to attend the meeting of the state council of education to be held in Oakland, April 12.

WALTER JOHNSON WILL QUIT GAME

Washington Whirlwind Says Present Season Will Be His Final

By NICK FLATLEY
For International News Service.

TAMPA, Fla., March 28.—Walter Johnson must have given up all dreams of ever pitching in a world's series. Walter has announced that he will retire at the end of the 1924 campaign and the Washington Senators are not going to win any pennants in that affair, barring two or three of those miracles.

Walter himself is in mighty good shape this spring, but there isn't the necessary sporting cast for any baseball revolution.

The Senators have the youngest manager extant, Stanley Harris, aged 29, and one of the best second basemen. Clark Griffith, who owns the club, has been trying for several years to pick one of his players and make a real manager out of him.

He tried George McBride, then Clyde Milan, and last year Donie Bush. None quite pleased him.

Team Looks Good

Harris has his bunch hustling, and the boys like him. He was always an earnest and strictly honest player himself. He has a pretty good ball club. His infield looks a bit weak around third but is otherwise very classy. His outfielders can capture fly balls and smack the agate, and he has a real catching staff in Muddy Ruel.

Johnson, of course, is the foundation for any pitching staff and his years of service have not affected his ability to keep on the winning side. Zachary and Mogridge are a good pair of veteran southpaws and Zahnizer showed plenty of right-hand stuff in spots last season. Allen Russell is one of the best for finishing-up purposes, and can go for a full game once in a while.

Manager Harris is stuck on two of his young pitchers, Marberry, from Memphis, and Red Wingfield, from Chattanooga. Both are right handers.

RICKEY POSITIVE CARDS ARE GOOD

Hasn't Any Catcher, Infield Is Weak, Still Branch Rickey Optimistic

By NICK FLATLEY
For International News Service.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 28.—"I have one of those ball teams this year," orates Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, "that's likely to hop off on the right foot and spill things all around the league. There have been such clubs and the Cardinals seem to be one of them this spring."

Thus the owner-manager, who hasn't any regular catcher and is touring the south trying to discover one, expresses his optimism. Branch, as we see things, is just about where he left off last fall, with perhaps not quite so good a club. His pitching figures to be pretty good—very good perhaps—if two or three of the boys can start winning regularly and thereby escape the derrickings and bull pen work that are a part of the Cardinal system.

Catcher Injured

Rickey visited the Boston camp and wanted to swap Milton Stock, his holdout third baseman, for Mickey O'Neil, star Brave catcher. He almost came to terms about several other backstops.

The receiver troubles started when Rickey gave Eddie Ainsmith the air. Edward was too temperamental. He was good enough for the Giants to snap up. The Cardinals were depending on Clemons to do practically all their catching but he wrenched his knee and is hobbling around on crutches.

Rickey has a notion he can manufacture catchers. He tried for two years with McCurdy and is still trying. He's working now on young Holm, who was a pretty good outfielder for Syracuse last year.

Infield Weaker

Rickey's infield, unless he trades or signs up Stock, will be a bit weaker than it was. Ray Blades, who has the makings of a star, will be parked on third, but it will take a while for him to get himself up to the Stock standard. Doc Lavan is having his usual brilliant spring as shortstop, the great Hornsby is playing and hitting in his own particularly brilliant way and Bottomley is one of the best young first basemen and one of the game's big hitters.

The outfield looks all right. Jim Smith, Hy Myers and Max Flack are three veterans, but still very good ball players. Young Mueller and Blades perform well.

Rickey's pitching department should be good. Willie Doak, spitballer, is in perfect shape. Last year he had trouble with his arm. Jess Haines is as good as the next right hander, and Willie Sherdel is one of the niftiest southpaws extant. Rickey is also pinning lots of hope on John Davis Stuart, who hopped into fame last fall by winning both ends of a doubleheader against the Boston Braves.

Master Robert Wins British Turf Classic

AINTREE, Eng., March 28.—Master Robert won the Grand National steeplechase here today in the presence of King George and a distinguished crowd gathered from all Britain.

Conjurer II, the favorite, did not get in the money. Fly Mask finished second, and Silvo third. Out of the thirty horses that started, only eight finished.

The favorite, Conjurer II, was under heavy guard all night. It was estimated there was about $5,000,000 bet upon this horse.

Ex-Cabinet Officer Puts Blame On Blackmailers, Bootleggers And 'Other Shady Gentry'

Coolidge Says He Is Not Prejudging Official Upon Charges Before Committee

proven testimony of blackmailers, bootleggers and other shady gentry, whose testimony was inadmissible in any court, and he virtually accused Mr. Coolidge of yielding to "clamor" and "party expediency."

He warned the president that the American people face a crisis in national affairs as a result of recent "scandal revelations" and he bluntly put to the president the question of whether "this is to remain a government of law and order or is to become a government of terrorism, slander and fear."

Dangerous Doctrine

The position taken by the president—that Daugherty could not defend himself from attack and efficiently fulfill his duties as attorney-general—was disputed by Mr. Daugherty. He declared the president's contention in this regard to be "hardly warranted by the facts." He called attention to the fact that he had hired counsel at his own expense to defend him, and denied that employes of the government had been put to work in his personal behalf in what he described as this "so-called investigation."

The attorney-general bluntly told the president that he was following a "dangerous doctrine" in forcing the resignation of a cabinet officer simply because charges were made against such an officer, and before there was "a fair hearing" on such charges. A precedent is thus established, the attorney-general contended, that is "dangerous."

Letter from President

The following letter from the president to the attorney-general was made public:

"My dear Attorney-General: Since my conference with you I have examined the proposed reply you suggest making to the demand that you furnish the committee investigating the department of justice with files from that department, relating to litigation and to the bureau of investigation.

"You represent to me and to the committee in your letter that it would not be compatible with the public interest to comply with the demand, and wish to conclude your letter with a statement that I approve that position. Certainly I approve the well-established principle that departments should not give out information or documents, where such a course would be detrimental to the public interest, and this principle is always peculiarly applicable to your department, which has such an intimate relation to the administration of justice. But you will readily perceive that I am unable to form an independent judgment in this instance without a long and intricate investigation of voluminous papers, which I cannot personally make, and so I should be compelled to follow the usual practice in such cases and rely upon your advice as attorney-general and head of the department of justice.

'Interested Party'

"But you will see at once that since the committee is investigating your personal conduct, you have become an interested party, and the committee wants these papers because of a claim that they disclose your personal conduct of the department. Assuming that the request of the committee is appropriately limited to designated files, still the question will always be the same in view of the fact that the inquiry relates to your personal conduct, you are not in a position to give to me or to the committee what would be disinterested advice as to public interest. You have a personal interest in this investigation which is being made of the conduct of yourself and your office, which may be in conflict with your official interests as the attorney-general. I am not questioning your fairness or integrity. I am merely reciting the facts that you are placed in two positions, one your personal interest, the other your office of attorney-general, which may be in conflict. How can I satisfy a request for action in matters of this nature on the grounds that you, as attorney-general, advise against it, when you, as the individual, against whom the inquiry is directed, necessarily have a personal interest in it? I do not see how you can be acting for yourself in your own defense in this matter, and at the same time and on the same question acting as my adviser as attorney-general.

Entitled to Hearing

"These two positions are incompatible, and cannot be reconciled. I am sure you will see that it is necessary for me to have the advice of a disinterested attorney-general, in order that I may discharge the duties of my office in this and other matters. I feel certain that you will know how deeply I regret that this situation has arisen. It only illustrates the difficulties which are certain to recur with ever-increasing embarrassment and your inability to perform satisfactorily the duties of the attorney-general under present conditions. You will readily understand that it is not now my intention to pre-judge the issues which remain to be developed in this investigation.

"I recognize that you are entitled to a full and fair hearing. But as there is no way by which you can divest yourself of the interests you have personally in the investigation, I can see no way but for you to retire as attorney-general, and I am therefore compelled to request your resignation.

"Very truly yours,
"CALVIN COOLIDGE."

Daugherty's Reply

The reply of the attorney-general was brief. It follows:

"My dear Mr. President: I hereby acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 27, by the hand of your secretary, requesting my resignation as attorney-general of the United States.

"Solely out of deference to your request, and in compliance therewith, I hereby tender my resignation. While you do not state when you desire my resignation to become effective I most respectfully request that it become effective forthwith.

"Very truly yours,
"H. M. DAUGHERTY,
"Attorney-General.

Daugherty's retirement from the government ends a fight against him that has been in progress almost ever since he was appointed by the late President Harding, and which has been particularly severe for a year past. In the last six weeks—or since the passage of the Wheeler resolution of investigation—the pressure upon him has been terrific.

The attorney-general fought back with a determination that his friends called "magnificent and courageous" and his enemies termed "perverse stubbornness."

Always he was insistent that he would not resign under fire, or so long as the charges made against him and his administration remained unproved.

Much Opposition

There was opposition to Daugherty at the time of his appointment to the attorney-generalship by the late President Harding. He was more to Harding than a mere campaign manager—he was a close friend and associate of years standing, and Harding brushed aside all objections to his friend.

From time to time, during the Harding administration, enemies of the attorney-general would start sporadic drives against him, but always they fell down against the stone wall of Mr. Harding's opposition.

A year ago these drives against the attorney-general culminated in the introduction of a resolution of impeachment by Representative Keller, Republican of Minnesota, who acted for a group of Daugherty's enemies inside and outside the government. The resolution came to nothing and Daugherty continued in office, apparently more solidly entrenched than before.

Harding's Death Blow

The death of President Harding in August again brought the status of the attorney-general to the forefront. Of all members of the cabinet, Daugherty more than any other member, was a personal appointee of the late President Harding and the enemies of the attorney-general renewed their efforts to "get him."

Harding's death was a severe blow to Daugherty in a personal way, and so crushed was he that his was the first resignation placed in the hands of the new president after the Harding funeral. At that time, however, President Coolidge is said to have placed his hand on the attorney-general's shoulder and observed that he (Coolidge) believed he (Daugherty) was a "much maligned man" and he asked him to remain. Daugherty consented with some reluctance, for, as he told friends, with Harding gone he did not care particularly whether he remained in the cabinet or not.

Then came the renewed drive against the attorney-general—an off-shoot of the Teapot Dome investigation. His enemies seized upon the fact that Daugherty never protested against the oil lease to file fresh charges of "incompetence." Although he had been ready to retire last August, these renewed assaults apparently aroused the attorney-general's fighting spirit, and he fought his detractors savagely, determined not to get out while under attack.

Attacks from Within

The attacks on Daugherty came not only from his political enemies, but also from those within his own party—Republican senators going to the White House in numbers to urge upon the president that he oust his attorney-general. Some of these had long opposed the attorney-general and others feared his retention in the cabinet and the sensational attacks upon him might react against the party politically, as the Democrats were obtaining much campaign material as sensation followed sensation. Senators Lodge, Curtis, Pepper, Borah—the most influential Republicans in the Senate—were foremost among those urging Coolidge to get rid of the attorney-general.

For some time President Coolidge withstood this pressure. His support of Daugherty became pronounced after the attorney-general wrote his now famous letter to Senator Pepper, Republican of Pennsylvania, demanding to know if he were to be convicted before he was accorded a hearing on the charges made against him.

"Am I to be denied," said Daugherty, "the privilege that is accorded the basest criminal?"

Pressure Too Strong

The pressure, however, became too strong on Mr. Coolidge. Witnesses, whose testimony the attorney-general contended would not be acceptable in court, mounted the witness stand in the Wheeler investigation and testified to amazing and startling cases of graft and corruption among the closest friends of the attorney-general. Never did they directly charge him with corruption, but always his friends, some of whom, like Jesse W. Smith, were dead. Their stories could neither be proved nor disproved, because the people concerned, Smith, Hamon and others, were dead, but the cumulative effect of these sensational charges was such that President Coolidge finally yielded to the enormous pressure and requested the attorney-general's retirement.

SPOONING DRAWS BARKER'S FIRE IN SCHOOL ADDRESS

Petting Parties Scored by Speaker in Talk to Glendale Students

Assailing spooning and petting parties participated in by high school pupils and young people in general, Dr. Charles E. Barker this morning addressed the student body at the Broadway High school. He delivered another talk at the Harvard High school at 1 o'clock, following this with a speech to women and girls on the subject, "A Mother's Relation to Her Daughter," at 3 o'clock in the Broadway High.

Tonight Dr. Barker will address boys and their fathers on "A Father's Responsibility to His Son," at 8 o'clock, this concluding his visit in California to thirty high schools under the auspices of Rotary International. He was introduced by George B. Karr, president of the Glendale Rotary club, at this morning's meeting.

Impresses Pupils

"Making the Most Out of Life" was Dr. Barker's topic to the scholo pupils. He impressed three points on his hearers' minds:

First—Fifteen minutes' exercise each day for health's sake will pay you the greatest dividends of all.

Second—Concentration on study and work will make for success.

Third—A brave heart is necessary to withstand temptation.

"If you girls allow yourself to be petted," he said, in urging a brave heart, "remember, you can't play with mud without getting dirty. And it ALL COMES OUT IN THE WASH."

College Training

Shouting, pleading, acting out his speech in the various moods of character he was describing, Dr. Barker kept his audience laughing, cheering or tense in thought. He urged a college education for all who have "anything in their heads." And he quoted Huxley's definition of education as follows:

"The chief purpose of education is to train the mind and the will to do work you have to do when that work is to be done, whether you want to do it or not."

Dr. Barker, who was health adviser to Ex-President William Howard Taft, expects the Broadway High school auditorium to be filled with men and boys of Glendale tonight to hear his speech. The Rotary club extends the invitation gratis.

VAN NUYS LODGE MEN ARE GUESTS

Local Knights of Pythias Are Hosts to Visitors At Banquet

At the meeting held this week by the Knights of Pythias, the members of the Van Nuys lodge were special guests. It has been the custom of the Glendale and Van Nuys lodges to visit one another in turn each month, for the past several years and it was the privilege of the Glendale lodge to entertain a large delegation from Van Nuys this month.

During the early part of the meeting, which was presided over by the chancellor commander, R. Wright, the esquire degree was conferred. This was followed by a number of talks for the "good of the order" by local and visiting knights.

At the close of the regular ritualistic ceremonies the meeting was turned over to the Van Nuys knights who conducted a special degree which was conferred for the first time in Glendale.

Later in the evening all were conducted to the banquet room where refreshments were served. There were seventy-five present, including the visiting knights.

WRIGLEY DESERTS JOHNSON FORCES

Californian's Campaign for Nomination Hopeless, Friend Declares

William Wrigley, Jr., hitherto one of the strongest backers of the campaign for the Republican presidential nomination that has been waged by Senator Hiram Johnson, has definitely announced that he has withdrawn from the ranks of Johnson's financial supporters and is no longer associated with the campaign.

Wrigley is said to have stated that he took this course after he had become convinced that Johnson's chances of securing the nomination were hopeless and that President Coolidge was certain of nomination.

His personal friendship for Johnson, Wrigley declares, tends to make him support the senator in the race, but he has implicit faith that Coolidge is not only making a good president now but that he will also maintain a high standard of executive efficiency in the event of his election in November.

Illinois Story Bunk

Wrigley denounces as "pure bunk" the report that he was slated to manage Johnson's campaign in his home state of Illinois, and he stresses the fact that he is already an unpledged candidate on the Illinois ticket for delegate to the national convention.

Wrigley emphasized the statement that he has declined to make any further financial contributions to the Johnson campaign fund.

CIRCUS OWNER TO LEAD BIG PARADE

Al G. Barnes Will Ride In Chevrolet Furnished By Local Dealer

Elephants, pretty girls, tigers, ponies, calliopes and all of the other features of a modern circus will play second fiddle to a Glendale automobile tomorrow.

When Al G. Barnes, owner of the circus that bears his name, rides at the head of his gigantic parade tomorrow forenoon it will be in a Chevrolet, furnished by C. L. Smith, Glendale dealer.

"Mr. Barnes chose the Chevrolet for his personal chariot because it is the most popular quality car in the United States," Mr. Smith declared today. "In his travels that extend from Maine to California; from Winnipeg to Galveston; from Bellingham, Wash., to Tampa, Florida, he is in a position to judge the worth of automobiles as well as other things that he uses daily.

"Besides using the Chevrolet tomorrow to head the parade, Mr. Barnes has announced that he will use it in his feature act under the big top, when an automobile load of spectators will ride over the circus strong man and try to break his bones. That act takes about forty-five minutes."

G. B. Shaw May Write Dictionary of His Own

LONDON, March 28.—George Bernard Shaw has started a controversy in London about the proper pronunciation of "isolate."

In his play that takes five nights to perform, "Back to Methuselah," Shaw makes one of his characters pronounce the word as though it rhymed with "is-so-late" instead of the customary pronunciation that would rhyme with "why-so-late." The battle of the short or long "i" started at once.

One persevering controversialist has taken the trouble to look up the authorities. He finds that five out of nine dictionaries disagree with Shaw outright by favoring the long "i." Three admit that either the short or the long vowel may be used but give precedence to the long, and one lone compendium of words supports Shaw in declaring for the short "i."

The fact that so many dictionaries are against him will, of course, make no difference to Shaw. He will brand the authors of the dictionaries as "quite insane," as he did the critics of his play, and when he gets time probably will write a dictionary of his own to prove he is right.

Deaf and Dumb Pair Silent But Bellicose

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., March 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius A. Mangan had bitter family quarrels at their home in Burlingame, near here, but the neighbors never objected, according to a divorce suit on file here.

Mrs. Gladys Dorothea Mangan, who seeks a decree, explained their arguments were in the sign language. Both she and her husband are deaf and dumb.

Mangan was deft and vituperative in use of the digital language and often abused her with his fingers since their marriage in 1921, the plaintiff charged.

William P. Connery, member of congress from Massachusetts, is thirty-five. He has been actor, theatrical manager and politician. Now he wants to be a lawyer. CITY WILL SHARE IN DEVELOPMENT

Greater L. A. Association to Include Glendale In Industrial Plans

Glendale is to have a vital interest in the plans that were formed at the meeting in the Alexandria hotel, Los Angeles, for the industrial development of the Southland, as outlined by leading business men of this region at the formation of the Greater Los Angeles association, according to Charles B. Guthrie, Glendale realtor, who was invited as a representative of this city.

The plan, as given in detail at the meeting, calls for Southern California to put its finances behind its own industries and to afford employment to the thousands who are pouring into this section from other points by enlarging the manufacturing carried on here, the project to be accomplished by popular investment along lines approved by the lending commercial and development organizations in the Southland.

$50,000,000 Fund

The first step is the organization of the Greater Los Angeles association with a capital of $50,000,000, of which $5,000,000 is to be paid in at the start, this money to be used in making loans to manufacturers through the cooperation of the banks and commercial bodies.

Mr. Guthrie has been asked to call a meeting of the committee that has been appointed to look after the interests of Glendale in this plan, and as soon as possible a definite progam will be drawn up and presented to the association for approval.

Alleged Accomplice In Bank Theft Held

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—E. J. McGregor is in jail here today charged as an additional accomplice with Hubert Kittle, exarmy aviator and policeman, in the robbery of the Arcadia bank a year ago. Three Mexicans, said by the sheriff's office to be innocent, are now serving terms in San Quentin prison for the robbery. McGregor was an automobile salesman and also used the name of McDonald, the sheriff's office says. He is alleged to have gone to Tia Juana with Kittle and to have cashed there express money orders stolen from the bank at Arcadia.

Briton Reaches Rome In World Air Race

ROME, March 28.—Squadron Commander A. Stuart Maclaren of the British Royal Air force, who is attempting an around-the-world flight in a hydroplane, arrived at 7:40 o'clock this morning from Lyons, France. This was the third leg of the long journey.

Maclaren had stopped at Civita Vecchia for the night.

Mr. Daugherty, Now Private Citizen, Defends Himself, Offers President Advice

WASHINGTON, March 28.—President Coolidge today received the resignation of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general, in answer to what was practically a demand for it. The attorney general sent a brief letter to the president handing in his resignation. He followed it with a much longer letter in which he called "certain matters" to the president's attention.

The second letter of the attorney-general follows:

"My dear Mr. President:

"Under separate cover I have just handed you my formal resignation as attorney-general of the United States to take effect forthwith.

"Now that I am no longer a member of your cabinet, I feel constrained, as a private citizen, in all kindness, to call certain matters to your attention.

"Your request, Mr. President, for my resignation, is based on grounds that seem to be untenable. As you will perhaps remember, I did not intend to seek your advice with regard to compliance with the demands of the senate committee for indiscriminate delivery of the confidential files of the department of justice, or parts thereof. As I explained to you my duty was clear for I had frequently been called upon to determine this question. My answer was ready, as I informed you, and furnished you a copy thereof.

Tells Position

"My sole purpose in taking the matter up with you was to let you know the position I was compelled to take in the interest of the public business and for the protection of the government, that you might be in a position to advise other developments, if similar requests were made, what course they should pursue.

"Your suggestion that I cannot function as attorney-general and defend myself against the charges at the same time, I believe, is hardly warranted by the facts. You know I have employed counsel, at my own expense, to take the responsibility of representing me at the hearings before the senate committee in order that I could devote my time to the public business which I have been doing continuously.

"Those employed in the department have given no time belonging to the government to this so-called investigation, except to furnish data required by the various congressional committees. The business of the department is at its peak in efficiency and accomplishment, and I am prepared to demonstrate this fact before any tribunal if opportunity is offered.

"Dangerous Doctrine"

"Your suggestion that an attack upon a cabinet officer disqualifies him for further official service is a dangerous doctrine. Mr. President, all the pretended charges against me are false. But whether true or false, if a member of the cabinet is to be incapacitated or disqualified by the preferment of charges against him, no matter how malicious and groundless, and he is compelled to give up his responsible position and sacrifice his honor for the time being because of such attacks, no man in any official position is safe and the most honorable, upright and efficient public servants could be swept from office and stable government destroyed by clamor.

"I have often advised you that my elimination is part of the program now being carried on. The origin of the persistent and vindictive attempt to discredit me as attorney-general is well known. It principally proceeds from two sources. The powerful individuals and organizations who resent my successful action, in conformity with my sworn duty to save this country from violence and anarchy during an industrial crisis far more serious than the general public has ever known; second, from those equally powerful individuals and organizations, guilty of graft upon the government during the world war while the youth of our land was making the supreme sacrifice for the nation. I have to the best of my ability discharged my sworn duty to prosecute all such individuals and organizations, but the task has been beset with peculiar difficulties by the fact that the official record in most of these cases was made up by men supposedly representing the government in these transactions who were either knowingly or stupidly parties to the crime. This partnership of the rioter and the war profiteer has ceaselessly sought to break down the faith of the American people in me and the department of justice.

Scandal and Gossip

"In the high court of impeachment their attempt to fasten guilt upon me collapsed in disgrace to its originators, and they did not dare to appeal again to the constitutional courts.

"In the lower courts of scandal, gossip, rumor and innuendo, to which appeal is now made, it will have no better success with the people of this country who read and think and believe in justice and the square deal, but coupled with threats of similar treatment of other public men it has impressed politicians who think everything of personal and party expediency and nothing of the principle involved, with the necessity of offering me as a sacrifice to propitiate the vengeful interests which seek my destruction.

"I cannot escape the conviction, Mr. President, that your request for my resignation is also most untimely. It comes at a time when the truth is banishing falsehood from the public mind, even though I have not as yet had an opportunity to place upon the witness stand before the senate committee a single witness in my defense or in explanation or rebuttal of the whispered and gossipy charges against me.

"No better evidence of the failure to substantiate charges of wrongful action on my part could be offered than the character of the proceedings by the senate committee engaged in conducting the present niquiry. If my accusers had believed me guilty they would have been scrupulously careful to select as members of the tribunal men of judicial character, with open minds, in order that an unprejudiced verdict might be rendered. The choice as majority members of this committee of men, some of whom have openly, bitterly and falsely assailed me under senatorial immunity, and who have also assailed my administration of the department of justice; the designation of a member of this court as prosecutor who is the responsible author of the resolution against me; the refusal to apply to the proceedings any rule of evidence to grant me the customary immediate right of cross-examination and early opportunity for rebuttal; and, above all, the character of the witnesses, including blackmailers, bootleggers, confessed corruptionists and discharged and discredited government employes, not one of whom has given testimony that would be admitted evidence in the most loosely conducted court of the land; all this proves to fair-minded men that in the absence of competent and credible testimony the elements in control of this committee seek to convict by immaterial and malicious gossip retailed by irresponsible witnesses. In such a tribunal, by such methods and out of the mouth of such witnesses an honest man could be convicted of any crime.

Offered to Resign

"I am aware, Mr. President, that the suggestion has been made to you that my retirement from the cabinet would serve the ends of party expediency. Had I believed this I would have retired when this contention was first raised.

"Twice since you became president and when I could have done so without criticism, I have offered to retire from your cabinet, and you have in each instance requested me to remain, because, as you were kind enough to say, of your satisfaction with the splendid accomplishments of the department of justice under my administration.

"After this recent attack and while under fire, I stood my ground because I believed that cowardice and surrender of principle are never expedient and that every sacrifice of justice to clamor is followed by demand for still greater sacrifices.

"From the beginning this attack upon me has in fact been an attack upon the administration and the Republican party, which my assailants are seeking to discredit for partisan purposes. Since the assault upon me began, the purpose to attack every administration official of prominence, including the president himself, has been publicly revealed.

"The American people confront a crisis in national affairs equal in gravity to any we have faced in all our history. Is this to remain a government of law and order, of constitutional procedure with its guarantees of individual rights and its safeguards for equal justice to the highest and humblest, or is it to become a government by slander, by terrorism and fear?

"In the battle for my rights as an official and a citizen, the rights of every citizen of this republic are involved, for who of all our millions of people knows but that he may be the next to become the object of unjust accusations by unlawful inquisitions?

"In conclusion, Mr. President, please accept my thanks for your statement that you do not question my fairness and integrity, and believe me,

"Yours very truly,
(Signed)
"HARRY M. DAUGHERTY."

LUNCHEON COSTS ARE CLUB TOPIC

Kiwanians Adopt Plans to Halt Loss to Women Preparing Meals

Ways and means of getting better attendance at meetings, and the question of the Tuesday Afternoon club breaking even on the number of meals prepared each week for the club, formed the principal topics of discussion at the regular monthly business meeting of the Kiwanis club, held today noon at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse.

Harry MacBain, chairman of the house committee, reported from ten to twenty-five extra meals are prepared each week, and these meals are a total loss to the club when members who have signified their intention of attending fail to show up.

After a considerable discussion, a resolution requesting the board of directors to have lunch tickets printed and paid for each month or quarter was adopted, and the actual cost of meals not used will be paid to the club. The surplus on the luncheon fees will go into the club treasury.

The quarterly lunch ticket is a system in vogue at Pasadena Kiwanis club, and is said to be a help in getting members to attend the meetings after they have paid for luncheons.

To Enforce Rules

President A. L. Baird, who presided, called attention to the falling off of attendance, and announced that the attendance rule of the club would be strictly enforced hereafter. A member missing four meetings is automatically suspended under the rules.

Secretary Don Webb spoke on the charter night celebration of the South Pasadena club, an organization fostered by the Glendale club. The celebration will be held on April 11 at the Hotel Raymond, and a delegation of thirty or more from the Glendale club will attend.

Paul Stillman, formerly speaker of the general assembly of Iowa, and now a resident of Glendale, spoke briefly on the lecture tonight to be given by Dr. Charles Barker under the auspices of the Rotary club.

Education Plans

One meeting each quarter, with ten minutes each meeting, will hereafter be devoted to the educational committee, it was decided, after Clifford Cole, chairman of that committee, told of the work of the body. The purposes and principles of Kiwanis will be explained to new members at these times, Mr. Cole said.

Dr. "Jack" Anderson appealed to the members of the club to support the Easter Sunrise services to be given on Forest Lawn hill under the auspices of the Choral club. William Bode told the members of the club how the Exchange club bowlers beat the Kiwanis team last Wednesday night and a report on the work of the under-privileged child committee was given by Ed Radke.

Following the discussion on luncheons, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, who is in charge of the meals at the Tuesday Afternoon club, was given a rising vote of thanks when she was introduced to the members.

PANAMA'S POLICE ROUT CRIMINALS

Dope Traffic Stamped Out By Stern Attitude of Officials

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
For International News Service.

PANAMA CANAL ZONE, March 28.—"The dope venders of Panama and the canal zone are whipped."

This statement was made to International News Service by Colonel Albert R. Lamb, inspector general of police of the Republic of Panama, in an interview in which he pointed out that the once serious "dope" traffic in the canal zone is slowly but surely being stamped out. Colonel Lamb is in charge of the 685 police officers in the republic, 160 of whom are mounted.

The Panama police are an attractive lot. They are lithe-looking, light brown in complexion and wear snappy khaki uniforms. Most of them appear to be between 25 and 30 years old.

"We have been bearing down hard on the venders of dope," said Colonel Lamb. "The number of American soldiers and sailors in the canal zone who have been able to get dope in the last year has been greatly reduced.

Contrasts Conditions

"This situation is quite a contrast to the time—not far back—when there was much traffic in dope among the soldiers and sailors.

"There has been just as much progress in cleaning up this traffic as the medical authorities have made in making the formerly unsanitary canal zone sanitary.

"We got through a law which makes the minimum sentence for any person caught selling dope one year in jail and one year's banishment from the provinces in which they live. The Republic of Panama is divided into provinces.

"The most of the dope is sold in the principal cities in the Republic—Panama and Colon—Panama on the Pacific side of the Canal, Colon on the Atlantic. It is to these two places that the soldiers and sailors come for their good times.

"The work of reducing this traffic has been greatly assisted by the American Zone police, who work in the closest co-operation with the police of the Republic."

Chinese of whom there are many, sell most of the opium, while the great bulk of cocaine comes from Colombia, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, Colombia, according to Colonel Lamb, does not cooperate in the efforts to stamp out the traffic because Colombia since Panama asserted its independence from Colombia, has no relations with Panama and does not recognize the Republic of Panama.

Nab Dope Peddlers

Just before the joint army and many maneuvers late in January in the vicinity of the Canal between 50 and 75 venders of dope were arrested. Colonel Lamb admitted that despite these arrests there are about 200 others in some way or another identified with the dope industry.

Crime generally has been greatly cut down, according to Colonel Lamb, who has been in charge of the Panama police for the last six years and who is recognized as a fearless and efficient oficial. Colonel Lamb has been, in a sense, a soldier of fortune. It was he who organized the police force of Panama. It was a nondescript inefficient outfit numerically weak, when he took it in hand. He also organized the police force of Guatamala years ago, under the inctator, Manuel Estrada Cahera.

Colonel Lamb said that, although the population of Panama is comprised of people of almost all nationalities and temperaments, the number of grave crimes is comparatively small. Murders, he said, are uncommon; robberies are few, and affrays over women are not so numerous as strangers might surmise. Most of the arrests are due to intoxication. The saloons of Colon and Panama are wide open and liquor of all kinds can be purchased at a price that enables all the inhabitants to drink more or less freely.

WIFE NO. 1 FIGHTS TWO FOR LEGACY

Husband Faces Charges as Former Mate Starts Suit to Protect Children

By MICHAEL F. DACEY
For International News Service.

DENVER, March 28.—That Claude F. Bossie, former Denver police detective and later city clerk of Omaha, Neb., will get little comfort in his present difficulties from his first wife, Mrs. Susan Crawford Bossie, of this city, was indicated in a statement by the latter when she learned that Bossie had returned to this country to face charges of violating the Mann Act and to explain charges of alleged irregularities in connection with his conduct of office of city clerk of Omaha.

Bossie, a suave Italian-American and once a political leader in Denver, and a woman whom he claimed to be his third wife were halted in Paris, when their American passports were canceled. He is now in Omaha.

Launches Legal Action

Mrs. Susan Crawford Bossie, the first woman Bossie married, announced here she would launch legal action that would "jangle the skeletons in the family closet so violently that a couple of women who have tried to get their hands on Bossie's inheritance in Italy will be shaken loose for all time."

"When I have wound up my fight," Mrs. Bossie said, "I will have shown that neither of these women has any legal claim on Bossie; that I still am his wife and that my children are entitled to their just share of his property, which the other women have been trying to scheme into their own possession.

"My divorce from Bossie, which was granted in Denver, in October, 1910, is not legal. It was obtained by collusion into which I was cajoled. I did not want a divorce from him. I have never remarried for the reason that I expected some day to take action to have the divorce set aside. Now the time has come.

"Don't Want Him Back"

"I don't want him back to live with me, but I intend to protect my two children. They are entitled to a share of their father's property, even if they haven't had his support since they were very young."

The two children are Crawford A. Bossie, who lives with his mother, and Mrs. Claudia Lois Ernest, of this city.

According to the Denver Mrs. Bossie, the marriage of Bossie to Maybelle McKean, a New York chorus girl, in Omaha, Neb., in September, 1911, was illegal. Mrs. Bossie No. 1 charges that her preliminary divorce decree from Boston was granted in Denver in October, 1910, and that the absolute decree was not effective until a year and a day later. Thus, she asserts, Bossie was not free from his marital bonds in Denver when he married the second woman.

Fight Over Money

Mrs. Bossie No. 1 declared that Maybelle McKean was responsible for stopping Bossie in his trip to Italy with the woman declared to be Emma Marion Wamsley. "She wanted to keep Bossie from going to Italy with the Wamsley woman," Mrs. Bossie No. 1 said, "for she feared the Wamsley woman would get the money away from Bossie."

"Now that the McKean woman has started it," the Denver Mrs. Bossie continued, "I will finish up the job and see that neither one of them gets any of the money, if it is possible to do so. I have been fighting for my children for 16 years, and I am not going to quit now."

Bossie's Italian legacy, according to the Denver woman, will approximate $50,000, he receiving a third of his parents' $150,000 estate.

Mrs. Bossie maintained that Emma Marion Wamsley, the woman said to have been with Bossie when his European trip was interfered with in Paris, was the cause of breaking up the Denver home of the Bossies.

"I hunted her once with a pistol," Mrs. Bossie No. 1 declared, "and if I had caught her this story would not need to have been told."

MARRIAGE IS NOW CALLED FAILURE

Flapper All Wrong, Also, Says Irish Novelist In Criticizing America

CHICAGO, March 28.—"Modern marriage is the world's greatest failure."

This is the opinion of Shaw Desmond, Irish novelist and lecturer, expressed in an interview here. Desmond, author of "Bodies and Souls," "Passions" and other works, is happily married and the father of two children.

"The modern marriage is a constant battle between spiritual and physical love. It can be made a success; but, of course, there is no short cut to paradise. The proportion of marriages that are unhappy, passively or actively, is enormous. The way to make happy marriage is to begin with the boys and girls—give children a proper education in sex and life in a clear, beautiful way. You have to start with children—adults are hopeless—most men are dead from the neck up after 40, anyway—they don't think."

Scores Flappers

Desmond bitterly assailed the "flappers" as a contributory cause to the failure of marriage.

"The flapper is all wrong from her head to her feet," he declared. "I know your American flapper, and don't mistake me; I like her immensely, but she is crazy for excitement. She indulges in petting parties—the very rottenest preparation for a happy marriage. But this condition is a result of the misplaced puritanism of fathers and mothers—this constant formation of anti-societies which lead to suppression.

"I do not believe in early marriages," Desmond continued. "I believe a man should marry at 33 and a woman at between 27 and 30. A woman should be in the fullness of her beauty at 40, but she is usually faded out."

Of divorce Desmond also had very pronounced views.

"Divorce, I think, is more common here than in Europe. This can be traced to—first, sex segregation; that is, the men wrapped up in their business affairs and their own clubs, and the women in their clubs and parties; and second, the constant craze for excitement."

Detroit Woman Lives, Blood Pressure of 300

DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—With her blood pressure around the 300 mark, Mrs. Marie Ferguson, of this city is resting unconcernedly at her home, a living puzzle to all doctors here, who say that, according to all laws of science, she should be dead.

Mrs. Ferguson is a living phenomenon, the doctors say, because "there never was and will never be a blood pressure of 300 in a living human being. She is 59 years old and should have a normal blood pressure of 157.

With her blood galloping through her viens at 200 she ought to be seriously ill. At a pressure of 250 apoplexy ought to have set in. But, notwithstanding these things, Mrs. Ferguson's condition with blood pressure of 300 has caused her some discomfort but very little loss of sleep

Dr. Louis J. Carripy, resident gynecologist at the receiving hospital, discovered alarming pressure in Mrs. Ferguson's veins when several of his test tubes gave way under the pressure. He was astounded. Next day he again applied test tubes. The indicator jumped to the 300 mark, rose another half inch to 315 pressure mark—then the pressure of the mercury broke the tube.

Veteran Finds Father's Grave Near Hospital

BATH, N. Y., March 28.—To find the grave of his long-missing father in the cemetery of the veterans' institution where he himself is now an inmate was the experience of Charles J. H. Haggadorn, of the State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home here.

The son some months ago became an inmate of the home and recently, in walking through the home cemetery, came upon a stone bearing the same name as his father, under which the elder Haggadorn served during the Civil War. The son then consulted the records of the home, which established beyond doubt that the body at rest in the home plot is that of Haggerdorn's father.

Haggadorn states that both he and his father served in the Union army during the war, the father enlisting when 45 years old and the son when 18 years old. After the war they returned to their home in Amsterdam.

After several years the son went West, settling in South Dakota, where for years he was engaged in farming. In 1886 he was advised by his father that owing to feeble health he was preparing to travel to Dakota to visit the son. That was the last ever heard from the father by the son.

TWO FAMILIES IN TRIP TO EUROPE

Peirces Plan Celebration of Golden Wedding During Old World Voyage

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles I. Peirce of 328 West Elk street is to be a most happy culmination of fifty years of wedded happiness, for they are to enjoy a trip abroad with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore F. Peirce and daughter Patricia of 317 Vine street. The party of five will leave Glendale early Sunday morning via the Southern Pacific en route to New York, from where they will sail April 5 for Europe.

They had planned on leaving a few days earlier in order that they might spend a few days in New York but, on account of Patricia Peirce breaking her leg in a fall, the trip had been postponed long enough for her to be able to make the trip. As it is she will have to start out on crutches.

Away Three Months

Mr. and Mrs. Peirce had planned on entertaining with an informal social affair at their home on Elk street, in the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary, with the comrades of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. members as special guests and it was not until just recently they were told of the pleasant trip in store for them. They expect to arrive in Italy about May 1, the date of their wedding anniversary. They will be gone about three months and will visit in Paris, London and many other places of interest.

EAGLE ROCK

PLAN TO EXTEND BOULEVARD LINE

Lack of Street Car Service Over Mile Stretch Is Inconvenience

Extension of the York boulevard car line to Glassell avenue is under consideration by the Los Angeles board of public utilities. City Engineer Fred Lorentz recently made a survey of the situation and it is believed by those close to the project that it will go through.

To Mrs. Harry R. Collins, president of the York Valley Improvement association, will in this case go most of the credit, for she has been urging the movement for many months.

The stretch of York boulevard from the present west terminus to Glassell avenue, approximately a mile long, is a source of great inconvenience to thousands of residents in the thickly populated district. It works a particular hardship on the many children who must rely entirely on bus service to get to and from school, Mrs. Collins points out.

Claim Man Aped Woman

A man in woman's clothing, always a serious offense, was that with which passers-by charged a mysterious character found loitering in the west end the other morning. Officer R. H. Brown hurried to the scene, only to find an Italian youth reclining on the lawn of a residence there, in such a position as to create the illusion that he was trying to ape the fair sex. He was ordered to loiter henceforth in his own back yard.

The Chamber of Commerce publicity booklet, long delayed, is now off the press and may be obtained at the city hall, according to Secretary Donnell G. Montgomery of that body.

Mrs. Lillian N. Brown, of 5271 Eagle Dale avenue, is among the winners in a classified advertising contest conducted recently by a Los Angeles paper. Her prize was a valuable electric lamp.

R. S. Crandall has received word that his daughter, Miss Ruth Crandall, who has been doing missionary work in the Straits Settlement, Malaysia, has been transferred to Taiping, F. M. S.

Mrs. R. D. Clements is back at her home at 5144 Lolita avenue after a major operation.

ROY STEWART IS FILM ATTRACTION

Vaudeville Headliners Add To Merit of Glendale Theater Program

There are many good reasons why one should attend the Glendale theatre tonight. John Gano, "the singing miner," assisted by Viola Allen at the piano, is the vaudeville headliner, direct from the Orpheum circuit. The film attraction is Roy Stewart, supported by Esther Ralston, a Glendale girl, in "Pure Grit," which tells the romance of a Texas ranger. This is a new picture with a punch—one you will like.

The variety today is all that the word implies, for there are barrel-jumpers, novelty musicians, singers and dancers and black-face comedians. The Little sisters present a song cycle and dainty steps which have won them favor along the circuit.

The Fitzgeralds, who do the barrel-jumping, have something new and funny, it is said, while the two Whites, in a black-and-tan number, tell droll stories, dance a little and sing some.

Novelty music is presented by the Rowley family, who open with little wooden whistles and close with xylophone playing that is a big-time hit.

The same show plays tomorrow matinee and evening also, so be sure to see it.

desirable section of the city. The only difference, he declared mournfully, was that the roosters here began the morning crowing an hour earlier!

Now he demands, and his demand is seconded by Miss Warren, that mufflers or the axe be required for all roosters within the city limits. Miss Warren asks for further support—for an overwhelming protest. Is she right? Are roosters as useless as she claims?

British Plan State Control of Wireless

provided a fair price be fixed by agreement or compulsory arbitration. The government would thus, in its development schemes, be able to make use of every device for the improvement of radio communication that science might evolve. No private company would have the right to exclusive use of its inventions.

Plan Expansion

For the development of the empire wireless chain the committee recommends that an additional $300,000 be expended on the enlargement of the government station now being built at Rugby. Erection of another station of the same power is advocated. The Leafield station, now in operation, would be enlarged at a cost of approximately $300,000. The construction of a new station, to deal with radio telephony, at a cost of $1,250,000, is suggested.

It is the belief of the committee that within two or three years of their completion these stations would be self-supporting. Their importance as factors in the development of empire trade is emphasized. Imperial wireless, the committee asserts, "is an indispensable service in empire defense."

"Given a new service, cheap and speedy and efficient," the report declares, "empire traffic will expand in all directions. The interchange of news and opinions between Great Britain and all the overseas dominions and colonies will, in itself, amount to many millions of words per annum. We are informed that, apart from the help to trade by speeding up and augmenting inter-empire communication by wireless, finance and credit will also benefit. The change from long to short credit will become general when direct and continuous wireless communications are established within the empire."

PIONEERS CHECK OVER OLD TIMES

Stirring Days In Nebraska Recalled as Result of Story In News

By "OLD-TIMER"
Of The Evening News Staff.

By a strange coincidence and much to the amazement and also to the great gratification of "Old Timer," the story of Brady Island and the pioneer days along the Platte river in Nebraska, which appeared in The Glendale Evening News on Wednesday, was verified by a visitor in Glendale who chanced to read the article and called at the News office hoping to meet the writer and exchange reminiscences.

The visitor, G. W. Carleton, of Marshfield, Oregon, is the guest of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Hooper, of Hooper Oil Company, 222 East Broadway. Mr. Carleton was connected with the Union Pacific railroad for twenty-five years and the scenes of "Old Timer's" story were very familiar to him, especially as he was relief agent and shortly after the memorable visit of the writer at the station acted in that capacity for the cousin, Mr. Hill, the station agent, at Brady Island.

Corroborates Details

It is evident from a subsequent conversation with Mr. Carleton that the reminiscences of Old Timer are accurate, for Mr. Carleton corroborated a number of details. The little red station among the sand dunes, the huge water tank, the broad Platte rolling lazily by, the section house and sheep ranch, the emigrant and cattle trains, all were familiar pictures to him and no doubt even after these many years if the old call of the station "BI" was sounded, Mr. Carleton would feel the old impulse to spring to the key and answer the familiar signal.

Tremors, due to the subway in Paris, may cause the removal of the famous Observatory of Paris to outside the city limits.

Rigid Quarantine on California by Oregon

SALEM, Ore., March 28.—Governor Pierce, in a proclamation issued today, established a rigid quarantine against the foot and mouth disease infected areas of California.

The quarantine prohibits the unrestricted movement into Oregon of any class of livestock, poultry or livestock by-products, or hay, straw, fodder feeds, green vegetables or fresh garden materials originating in any district infected with the disease. Sheepshearers, farm and dairy laborers coming from California must furnish affidavits that they have not been in the infected areas.

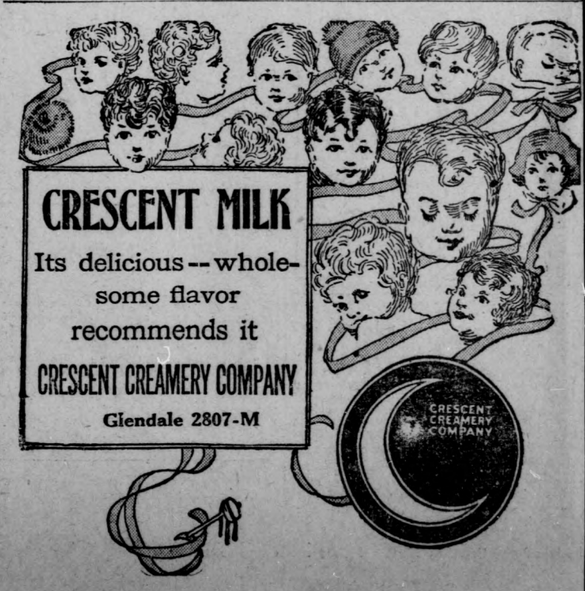
POISON IN MILK

MONT CLEMONS, Mich., March 28.—Enough poison to kill 2 people was in the milk distributed to the doorstep of Rev. Thomas G. Sykes, fighting foe of the Macomb county rum ring, a chemist's analysis disclosed late yesterday.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:
I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumbled Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemas, no more Old Dr. So-and-So's Pills, Epsom salts by the ton, etc., ad infinitum! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully,
L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.


You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.
